PRESIDENT COUNTING UPON AMERICAN UNITY

Provincials No Longer, it is Imperative That We Stand Together on World Stage in Co-operation With Mankind Wilson Declares in Inaugural Address.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 5.—President Wilson's inaugural address was as follows:

"My Fellow Citizens:

"The four years which have elapsed since last I stood in this place have been crowded with counsel and action of the most vital interest and consequence. Perhaps no equal period in our history has been so fruitful of important reforms in our economic and industrial life or so full of significant changes in the spirit and purpose of our political action. We have sought very thoughtfully to set our house in order, correct the grosser errors and abuses of our industrial life, liberate and quicken the processes of our national genius and energy, and lift our politics to a broader view of the people's essential interests. It is a record of singular variety and singular distinction. But I shall not attempt to review it. It speaks for itself and will be of increasing influence as the years go by. This is not the time for retrospect. It is time, rather, to speak our thoughts and purposes concerning the present and the immediate future.

"Although we have centered counsel and action wth such unusual concentration and success upon the great problems of domestic legislation to which we addressed ourselves four years ago, other matters have more and more forced themselves upon our attention, matters lying outside our own life as a nation and over which we had no control, but which, despite our wish to keep free of them, have drawn us more and more irresistibly into their own current and influence.

"It has been impossible to avoid them. They have affected the life of the whole world. They have shaken men everywhere with a passion and an apprehension they never knew before. It has been hard to preserve calm counsel while the thought of our own people swayed this way and that under their influence. We are a composite and cosmopolitan people. We are of the blood of all the nations that are at war. The currents of our thoughts as well as the currents of our trade run quick at all seasons back and forth between us and them. The war inevitably set its mark from the first alike upon our minds, our industries, our commerce, our politics and our social action. To be indifferent to it or independent of it was out of the question.

"And yet all the while we have been conscious that we were not part of it. In that consciousness, despite many divisions, we have drawn closer together. We have been deeply wronged upon the seas, but we have not wished to wrong or injure in return; have retained throughout the consciousness of standing in some sort apart, intent upon an interest that transcended the immediate issues of the war itself. As some of the injuries done us have become intolerable we have still been clear that we wished nothing for ourselves that we were not ready to demand for all mankind—fair dealing, justice, the freedom to live and be at ease against organized wrong.

"It is in this spirit and with this thought that we have grown more and more aware, more and more certain that the part we wished to play was the part of those who mean to vindicate and fortify peace. We have been obliged to arm ourselves to make good our claim to a certain minimum of right and of freedom of action. We stand firm in armed neutrality since it seems that in no other way we can demonstrate what it is we insist upon and cannot forego. We may even be drawn on by circumstance, not by our own purpose or desire, to a more active assertion of our rights as we see them and a more immediate association with the great struggle itself. But nothing will alter our thought or our purpose. They are too clear to be obscured. They are too deeply rooted in the principles of our national life to be altered. We desire neither conquest nor advantage. We wish nothing than can be had only at the cost of another people. We have always professed unselfish purpose and we covet the opportunity to prove that our professions are sincere.

"There are many things still to do at home, to clarify our own politics and give new vitality to the industrial processes of our own life and we shall do them as time and opportunity serve; but we realize that the greatest things that remain to be done must be done with the whole world for stage and in co-operation with the wide and universal forces of mankind, and we are making our spirits ready for those things. They will follow in the immediate wake of the war itself and will set civilization up again. We are provincials no longer. The tragical events of the thirty months of vital turmoil through which we have just passed have made us citizens of the world. There can be no turning back. Our own fortunes as a nation are involved, whether we would have it so or not.

"And yet we are not the less Americans on that account. We shall be the more American if we but remain true to the principles in which we have been bred. They are not the principles of a province or of a single continent. We have known and boasted all along that they were the principles of a liberated mankind. These, therefore, are the things we shall stand for, whether in war or in peace:

"That all nations are equally interested in the peace of the world and in the political stability of free peoples, and equally responsible for their maintenance;

"That the essential principle of peace is the actual equality of nations in all matters of right or privilege;

"That peace cannot securely or justly rest upon an armed balance of power;

"That governments derive all their just powers from the consent of the governed and that no other powers should be supported by the common thought, purpose, or power of the family of nations.

"That the seas should be equally free and safe for the use of all peoples, under rules set up by common agreement and consent, and that, so far as practicable, they should be accessible to all upon equal terms.

"That national armaments should be limited to the necessities of national order and domestic safety:

"That the community of interest and of power upon which peace must henceforth depend imposes upon each nation the duty of seeing to it that all influences proceeding from its own citizens meant to encourage or assist revolution in other states should be certainly and effectually suppressed and prevented.

"I need not argue these principles to you, my fellow countrymen; they are your own, part and parcel of your own thinking and your own motive in affairs. They spring up native amongst us. Upon this as a platform of purpose and of action we can stand together.

"And it is imperative that we should stand together. We are being forged into a new unity amidst the fires that now blaze throughout the world. In their ardent heat we shall, in God's providence, let us hope, be purged of faction and division, purified of the errant humors of party and of private interest, and shall stand forth in the days to come with a new dignity of national pride and spirit. Let each man see to it that the dedication is in his own heart, the high purpose of the nation in his own mind, ruler of his own will and desire.

"I stand here and have taken the high and solemn oath to which you have been audience because the people of the United States have chosen me for this august delegation of power and have by their gracious judgment named me their leader in affairs. I know now what the task means. I realize to the full the responsibility which it involves. I pray God I may be given the wisdom and the prudence to do my duty in the true spirit of this great people. I am their servant and can succeed only as they sustain and guide me by their confidence and their counsel. The thing I shall count upon, the thing without which neither counsel nor action will avail, is the unity of America—and America united in feeling, in purpose, and in its vision of duty, of opportunity, and of service. We are to beware of all men who would turn the tasks and the necessities of the nation to their own private profit or use them for the building up of private power; beware that our government be kept pure and incorrupt in all its parts. United alike in the conception of our duty and in the high resolve to perform it in the face of all men, let us dedicate our selves to the great task to which we must now set our hand. For myself I beg your tolerance, your countenance, and your united aid. The shadows that now lie dark upon our path will soon be dispelled and we shall walk with the light all about us if we be but true to ourselves—to ourselves as we have wished to be known in the counsels of the world and in the thought of all those who love liberty and justice and the right exalted."

GRAMMAR SCHOOL ATHLETIC MEET

Arrangements are being made by Physical Director Godfrey of the Y. M. C. A. to hold an indoor grammar school athletic meet at the Y. M. C. A. during Easter vacation week. A cup will be awarded the winning school team and medals will be given individual point winners. Full information may be obtained of Mr. Godfrey, of the association. It is hoped that every grammar school in the city will enter a team in the meet.

POLICE ARE NOW BUSY STUDYING

Annual Inspection to be Held May 1 at Y. M. C. A.—About Same Time Cops Will Take Oral or Written Examination.

If you should happen to see a member of the local police force busy while off duty studying a pile of books don't jump to the conclusion that the reading craze has struck the local force and that Old Sleuth and Nick Carter have taken a firm hold on the imagination of the local cops for you will be altogether wrong. To be exact they are busy preparing themselves for a written or an oral examination as the case may be to be held in May at which time the police board will put the force through its paces to see what the members really know about the city ordinances, the health board ordinances, the penal law and the rules of arrest. If anything has been omitted in the list the police force will promptly tell you so if asked. Incidentally it might be added that the annual inspection of the force will take place the afternoon of May 1 at the Y. M. C. A.

This is all the outcome of the regular monthly meeting of the police board held last week at which time it was decided to hold the annual inspection at the time stated. At the inspection the uniforms will come in for examination and also the revolvers carried by the force to see if the guns are in first class working order. It is said that the examination of the ordinances is so that a local officer will know the proper way in which to draw up a complaint when any of the ordinances is violated and that he may also become familiar with the existing ordinances in force in the city.

STOCKS AFFECTED BY SENATE FILIBUSTER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 5.—The news of the failure of congress to pass the administration measures had a disappointing effect on the stock market in the early trading today and some losses were sustained. The shipping shares were most directly affected, Marine Pfd. dropping 4⅛ points to 70½, and Altantic, Gulf and West Indies 1¾ to 95½. Later, however, Marine Pfd. rallied to 72¾ and upturns from the opening level were noted in many other issues. Steel Common declined ⅛ to 107½, and continued in supply. Utah Copper dropped 1⅛ to 112 and Union Pacific 1¼ to 133⅞. The rally after the opening was of short duration, another selling movement occurring, on which many of the upturns were lost.

SECRETARY HUGO ISSUES WARNING

Asks Co-operation of Local Police in Enforcing State Motor Law—Automobilists Should Read Warning and Observe It.

Chief of Police Wood has received the following letter from Secretary Hugo of the state department regarding the enforcement of the state motor law, and the chief has instructed his men to arrest any autoist caught running his car with a 1916 auto plate. The letter which is self explanatory follows:

Chief of Police, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—

Sufficient time has been given every motorist in this state to secure the 1917 number plates. I therefore ask your assistance to bring about the strict observance of the State Motor Vehicle Law. Numerous instances of violations through a continued use of last year's plates have recently come to my notice.

Automobile inspectors in the employ of this office will cover the state as far as possible in looking after violations of law. Your efforts will be of the greatest assistance, however, and I would request that whatever publicity is possible be given this communication as a warning to those motorists who persist in driving with 1916 plates attached to their vehicles.

May I have your co-operation?

Very truly yours,

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

MANAGER SHERRY WAS FINED $20

Pleaded Guilty to Allowing Children Under 16 Years in Orpheum Theater on Saturday Afternoon.

Manager Philip Sherry of the Opheum theater on lower Broadway pleaded guilty this morning in recorder's court to a charge preferred by Sergeant Phinney of allowing children under 16 years of age admittance to the theater on Saturday afternoon, and Recorder Lang imposed a fine of $20 to which Mr. Sherry paid.

Manager Sherry is the third movie magnate to be arrested this year by the police. Under the law no children under 16 years of age are to be allowed admittance to a theater unless accompanied by their parents or a guardian. The education board made complaint to the police that the law was not being enforced, and that children were allowed to attend the theaters in the city.

FAILURE TO TIE BULL WAS COSTLY

Legal Aspects of Approaching Animal Before Judge Hasbrouck in Changing Place of Trial for Damage Suit Against Mrs. Dimick.

A case of great interest to raisers of thoroughbred cattle, came up before Judge Hasbrouck at the special term of the supreme court on Saturday when on the application of Judge Clearwater, counsel for Mrs. Altha C. Dimick, of Woodcrest Farm, he granted an order changing the place of the trial of an action brought against her by Jacob Graff from Dutchess to Ulster county. Graff was a farmer on Mrs. Dimick's farm, and had charge of one of the thoroughbred bulls kept there, it being his duty to feed, water groom the bull, and clean his stall. He was instructed that before entering the box stall in which the bull was kept, to tie him up to the side of the stall by a rope fastened to a ring passing through the cartilage of the nose of the bull.

After several months Graff became careless, and frequently entered the stall without tying the bull. When this came to the ears of the superintendent Graff was told that while the bull was gentle, and never had attacked any one, there were seasons when his temper became uncertain, and that if he continued to treat him in this careless manner he probably would get hurt. At this advice Graff laughed, and said the bull was one of his best friends, and never would hurt him, late in December, 1914, Graff entered the stall without tying the bull and was attacked. He claims to have sustained injuries from which he never will recover, and sued Mrs. Dimick over in Dutchess county for $5,000 damages, whereupon Judge Clearwater moved to change the place of trial from Dutchess to Ulster, with the result that an order was granted bringing the case here.

Will Quiz Bankrupt.

Walter K. Knox of Walden, contractor and builder in that village who has filed a petition in bankruptcy will be asked to tell why he paid some of his creditors in full while others received nothing. It is alleged that Knox paid some of his debts in full and others remained unpaid. Charles W. Sneed of Newburgh, trustee in bankruptcy has retained Attorney D. G. Atkins as his representative.

Tuskegee Singers This Evening.

The Tuskegee Jubilee Singers of the Tuskegee Institute in Alabama will give a concert in the chapel of the First Dutch Church this evening at eight o'clock. The Jubilee Singers have appeared in Kingston on several occasions and have become popular with concert-goers. Plantation melodies form the principal part of their program. No admission will be charged but there will be a free will offering.

DEYO'S COOPER SHOP DESTROYED

Fire of unknown origin wiped out the large cooper shop and storehouse of S. R. Deyo's cider plant along the West Shore railroad tracks early Sunday evening, and it was due solely to the work of the local fire department that the entire plant was not destroyed. The first inkling of the fire was received about 8 o'clock when a still alarm was sent into the Central Fire Station to which the motor truck responded. When Deputy Fire Chief Murphy reached the scene he immediately realized that he had not men enough to cope with the situation and promptly turned in an alarm followed immediately by a second alarm.

The cooper shop and storehouse is a two story frame building 244 feet long and about 50 feet in width. It is located about thirty feet away from the cider mill and it was only due to the work of the fire department that the mill did not catch fire. In nearby vats was stored thousands of gallons of vinegar and cider and if the vats had become ignited it would undoubtedly have meant a total loss.

The nearest fire hydrant to the fire was located fully five hundred feet away while another hydrant was about 600 feet away making it necessary to string over a thousand feet of hose in order to play two streams of water on the flames. The steamer on the motor truck was also used to good advantage. The fire lit up the skies for miles around and was plainly visible from all sections of the city.

Despite the intense cold and the blinding snow storm over five hundred spectators were drawn to the scene and fully fifty automobile parties rushed out to the fire. When the second alarm was turned in Chief Wood hastened to the scene and took personal charge of the police arrangements and the police by their work greatly assisted the firemen by keeping the crowd back out of the way.

An effort was made this morning to secure information from the plant as to whether the loss was covered by insurance and if there was any idea as to the cause of the fire, but the answer received was that "Mr. Deyo was too busy to talk."

It is understood, however, that the loss is covered by insurance.

Several years ago fire destroyed the cooper shop on the site on which the present building was erected. At that time it was due to the work of the firemen that the rest of the plant was saved. At that time a circus was being unloaded in the north yard.

BANKRUPTS TRIAL BEFORE JUDGE RAY

The matter involving the Ruddy, Saunders Construction Company, bankrupt state road contractors who, it is alleged, paid some of their friends while other creditors were not paid and then disposed of their road machinery and practically went out of business, has been on trial at Albany all last week and will be continued this week. Court will reconvene on Tuesday before Judge Ray with a jury after the week-end recess. George K. Smith as trustee is represented by Attorneys D. G. Atkins and John Carlisle.

The Ruddy Saunders Construction Company had several state road contracts, one of them being in the town of Esopus from the Lloyd line to Ulster Park, and after completing the work on this road and starting work on other contracts they received a payment from the highway department amounting to some $30,000. This money it is alleged was divided up among favored creditors and friends and other creditors were paid nothing. The company sold all road building machinery and has practically gone out of business. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed and many of the creditors are local concerns from whom supplies and material was purchased.

Severe Storm in New England.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, March 5.—New England was snowed in today. Traffic by rail and overland was badly tied up by huge snowdrifts made by the fifty mile gale that accompanied the heavy snowfall of Sunday and today. Trains from the north and west were from one to four hours late. Shipping was at a standstill. No abatement of the gale is in sight.

Autos in Collision.

An automobile driven by Peter Martin of Modena, collided with the machine of William Hudson of Newburgh, on the North Plank road near that city Saturday. Both cars had their fronts bent and fenders jammed, but the occupants escaped injury.

PRESIDENT PLANS TO "MARK TIME"

Complication at Capital Pronounced Greatest Sensation in Recent History—Senators Resentful of Mr. Wilson's Characterization of Filibuster as "Contemptible."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 5.—"A little group of wilful men, representing no opinion but their own, have rendered the great government of the United States helpless and contemptible."

This declaration by President Wilson, made within a few hours after he had taken the oath as his own successor, in assailing the senators who prevented the passage of the "armed neutrality bill" stood out today as the greatest sensation in recent American history. It came as an electric shock to the entire nation coupled as it was with the admission by the president that he had been mistaken when he told the congress that he had the power to arm merchant vessels for their own defense against German submarines. It has complicated the international situation so far as the United States is concerned. Officials who were endeavoring today to find out what the next step will be professed themselves as completely puzzled.

There were many open evidences of deep resentment in certain quarters over the president's statement. Naturally the senators who directly were assailed in the long formal statement issued from the White House last night were bitter. They had company in a number of senators and representatives who had fought their hardest to secure for the president the legislation he had asked. Their position was that had the president taken the country into his confidence, even as late as last Saturday, and frankly admitted that the ancient laws of the nation bound his hands and made it impossible for him to arm American vessels public pressure would have forced the opposition to permit a vote on the bill in the senate.

No explanation was forthcoming as to why this information was withheld. As late as Saturday White House and state department officials were asserting that no matter what the action of congress, the president would proceed with his program and would restore the American flag to the Atlantic. It was emphatically stated that the president had plenty of power to carry out his program. And it was with this belief in their minds that senators prepared the announcement which was signed by an overwhelming majority of the members of the upper house that they would have voted for the armed neutrality law if they had been permitted the opportunity.

Officialdom generally was asking today what could now be done. Accepting the president's words for what they seemed to mean it was agreed that the hands of the United States seemed tied until an extra session of congress should give the power already requested. But in this connection it seemed apparent that the president was standing by his already announced policy of withholding any call for an extra session until the last possible moment. The president had frankly declared:

"It would not cure the difficulty to call the 65th congress in extraordinary session. The paralysis of the senate would remain. The purpose and the spirit of action are not lacking now."

Senators closest to the administration openly stated today that they hoped to start a fight in the senate to amend the rules. The senate meeting today in extraordinary session for the purpose of considering nominations, may be in session for some time. Friends of Senator La-Follette declared that he will reply to the president's statement as soon as he gets the opportunity. Other senators whose course of conduct is reflected on are expected to set forth their position. A real fight between the executive and the senate is forecast, which may greatly impede the transaction of any business in the senate.

When the last session of the senate met, Senator John W. Kern, of Indiana, the Democratic leader, was sponsor for a movement to change the rules and thus avoid such a situation as resulted in the death of the armed neutrality bill. Canvass of the membership, however, revealed the fact that the majority were opposed to any such action. It was argued at that time that the position of the senate was such that it needed its ancient rules to act as a check on the house which jammed through most of the legislation under "gag rules." Whether the senate now will "see the light" is a proposition upon which none of the members would hazard a guess today.

The legislation which President Wilson has discovered will prevent him arming American merchant vessels are the laws of 1818 and 1819. The first law permits the arming of merchantmen against pirates. A second specificially prohibits such armed merchantmen from "opposing and defending against any aggression by a public armed vessel of any nation in amity with the United States." Submarines are public armed vessels and the United States at present is in amity with Germany despite the breaking of diplomatic relations.

Meanwhile pending a clarification of the situation it was stated officially that the president would "mark time" in dealing with the general submarine situation. He hopes, it is known, that the senate will amend its rules so that an extra session can be called.

Later however Marine Pfd. rallied to 82[illegible] and upturns from the opening level were noted in many other issues. Steel Common declined ¾ to 107[illegible] and continued in supply. Utah Copper dropped 1⅛ to 112 and Union Pacific 1¼ to 133[illegible]. The rally after the opening was of short duration, another selling movement occurring on which many of the upturns were lost.

SECRETARY HUGO ISSUES WARNING

Asks Co-operation of Local Police in Enforcing State Motor Law—Automobilists Should Heed Warning and Observe It

Chief of Police Wood has received the following letter from Secretary Hugo of the state department regarding the enforcement of the state motor law and the chief has instructed his men to arrest any motorist caught running his car with a 1916 auto plate. The letter which is self explanatory follows:

Chief of Police, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Sufficient time has been given every motorist in this state to secure the 1917 number plates. I therefore ask your assistance to bring about the strict observance of the State Motor Vehicle Law. Numerous instances of violations through the continued use of 1916 plates have recently come to my notice.

Automobile inspectors in the employ of this office will cover the state as far as possible in looking after violations of law. Your effort will be of the greatest assistance however and I would request that whatever publicity is possible be given this communication as a warning to those motorists who persist in driving with 1916 plates attached to their vehicles.

May I have your co-operation?

Very truly yours,

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

MANAGER SHERRY WAS FINED $20

Pleaded Guilty to Allowing Children Under 16 Years in Orpheum Theater on Saturday Afternoon

Manager [illegible] Sherry of the Orpheum theater on lower Broadway pleaded guilty this morning in recorder's court to a charge preferred by Sergeant Phinney of allowing children under 16 years of age admittance to the theater on Saturday afternoon and Recorder Lang imposed a fine of $20 which Mr. Sherry paid.

Manager Sherry is the third movie magnate to be arrested this year by the police. Under the law no children under 16 years of age are to be allowed admittance to a theater unless accompanied by their parents or a guardian. The education board made complaint to the police that the law was not being enforced and that children were allowed to attend the theaters in the city.

FAILURE TO TIE BULL WAS COSTLY

Local Experts of Approaching Animal Before Judge Hasbrouck in Changing Place of Trial for Damage Suit Against Mrs. Dimick

A case of great interest to raisers of thoroughbred cattle came up before Judge Hasbrouck at the special term of the supreme court on Saturday when on the application of Judge Clearwater counsel for Mrs. Mattie C. Dimick of Woodcrest Farm he granted an order changing the place of the trial of an action brought against her by Jacob Graff from Dutchess to Ulster county. Graff is a farmer on Mrs. Dimick's farm and had charge of one of the thoroughbred bulls, kept the cut being his duty to feed, water, groom the bull and clean his stall. He maintained that before entering the box stall in which the bull was kept he tied him up to the side of the stall by a rope fastened to a ring passing through the cartilage of the nose of the bull.

After several months Graff became careless and frequently entered the stall without tying the bull. When this came to the ears of the superintendent Graff was told that while the bull was gentle and never had attacked anyone there were reasons when his temper became uncertain and that if he continued to treat him in this careless manner he probably would get hurt. At this time Graff laughed and said the bull was one of his best friends and never would hurt him. Late in December 1914 Graff entered the stall [illegible] and was attacked. He claims to have sustained injuries from which he never will recover and sued Mrs. Dimick over in Dutchess county for $5,000 damages. Thereupon Judge Clearwater moved to change the place of trial from Dutchess to Ulster with the result that an order was granted bringing the case here.

No admission will be charged but there will be a free will offering.

DEYO'S COOPER SHOP DESTROYED

Fire Sunday Evening Wiped Out Part of Cider Mill Plant—Good Work of Firemen Saved Adjoining Buildings—Cause of Fire Unknown

Fire of unknown origin wiped out the large cooper shop and storehouse of S. B. Deyo's cider plant along the West Shore railroad tracks early Sunday evening and it was due solely to the work of the local fire department that the entire plant was not destroyed. The first inkling of the fire was received about 8 o'clock when a still alarm was sent into the Central Fire Station to which the motor truck responded. When Assistant Chief Murphy reached the scene he immediately realized that he had not men enough to cope with the situation and promptly turned in an alarm followed immediately by a second alarm.

The cooper shop and storehouse is a two story frame building [illegible] feet long and about 50 feet in width. It is located about thirty feet away from the cider mill and it was only due to the work of the fire department that the mill did not catch fire. In nearby vats was stored thousands of gallons of vinegar and cider and if the vats had become ignited it would undoubtedly have meant a total loss.

The nearest fire hydrant to the fire was located fully five hundred feet away while another hydrant was about 600 feet away making it necessary to string over a thousand feet of hose in order to play two streams of water on the flames. The steamer on the motor truck was also used to good advantage. The fire lit up the skies for miles around and was plainly visible from all sections of the city.

Despite the intense cold and the blinding snow storm over five hundred spectators were drawn to the scene and fully fifty automobile parties rushed out to the fire. When the second alarm was turned in Chief Wood hastened to the scene and took personal charge of the fire arrangements and the police by their work greatly assisted the firemen by keeping the crowd back out of the way.

An effort was made this morning to secure information from the plant as to whether the loss was covered by insurance and if there was any idea as to the cause of the fire but the answer received was that Mr. Deyo was too busy to talk.

It is understood however that the loss is covered by insurance.

Several years ago fire destroyed the cooper shop on the site on which the present building was erected. At that time it was due to the work of the firemen that the rest of the plant was saved. At that time a circus was being unloaded in the north end.

BANKRUPTS TRIAL BEFORE JUDGE RAY

The matter involving the Ruddy Saunders Construction Company, bankrupt state road contractors who it is alleged paid some of their friends while other creditors were not paid and then disposed of their road machinery and practically went out of business, has been on trial at Albany all last week and will be continued this week. Court will reconvene on Tuesday before Judge Ray with a jury after the week end recess. George K. Smith as trustee is represented by Attorneys D. G. Atkins and John Carlisle.

The Ruddy Saunders Construction Company had several state road contracts, one of them being in the town of Esopus from the Lloyd line to Ulster Park and after completing the work on this road and starting work on other contracts they received a payment from the highway department amounting to some $20,000. This money it is alleged was divided up among favored creditors and friends and other creditors were paid nothing. The company sold all road building machinery and has practically gone out of business. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed and many of the creditors are local concerns from whom supplies and material was purchased.

Severe Storm in New England

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Boston, March 5.—New England was snowed in today. Traffic by rail and overland was badly tied up by huge snowdrifts made by the fifty mile gale that accompanied the heavy snowfall of Sunday and today. Trains from the north and west were from one to four hours late. Shipping was at a standstill. No abatement of the gale is in sight.

Autos in Collision

An automobile driven by Peter [illegible] of Modena collided with the machine of William Hudson of Newburgh on the North Plank road near that city Saturday. Both cars had their fronts bent and fenders jammed but the occupants escaped injury.

PRESIDENT PLANS TO "MARK TIME"

Complication at Capitol Pronounced Greatest Sensation in Recent History—Senators Resentful of Mr. Wilson's Characterization of Filibuster as Contemptible

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, March 5.—A little group of wilful men representing no opinion but their own have rendered the great government of the United States helpless and contemptible.

This declaration by President Wilson made within a few hours after he had taken the oath as his own successor in assailing the senators who prevented the passage of the armed neutrality bill stood out today as the greatest sensation in recent American history. It came as an electric shock to the entire nation coupled as it was with the admission by the president that he had been mistaken when he told the congress that he had the power to arm merchant vessels for their own defense against German submarines. It has complicated the international situation so far as the United States is concerned. Officials who were endeavoring today to find out what the next step will be professed themselves as completely puzzled.

There were many open evidences of deep resentment in certain quarters over the president's statement. Naturally the senators who directly were assailed in the long formal statement issued from the White House last night were bitter. They had company in a number of senators and representatives who had fought their hardest to secure for the president the legislation he had asked. Their position was that had the president taken the country into his confidence even as late as last Saturday and frankly admitted that the ancient laws of the nation bound his hands and made it impossible for him to arm American vessels public pressure would have forced the opposition to permit a vote on the bill in the senate.

No explanation was forthcoming as to why this information was withheld. As late as Saturday White House and state department officials were asserting that no matter what the action of congress the president would proceed with his program and would restore the American flag to the Atlantic. It was emphatically stated that the president had plenty of power to carry out his program. And it was with this belief in their minds that senators prepared the [illegible] an overwhelming majority of the members of the upper house that they would have voted for the armed neutrality law if they had been permitted the opportunity.

Officialdom generally was asking today what could now be done. Accepting the president's words for what they seemed to mean it was agreed that the hands of the United States seemed tied until an extra session of congress should give the power already requested. But in this connection it seemed apparent that the president was standing by his already announced policy of withholding any call for an extra session until the last possible moment. The president had frankly declared it would not cure the difficulty to call the 65th congress in extraordinary session. The paralysis of the senate would remain. The purpose and the spirit of action are not lacking now.

Senators closest to the administration openly stated today that they hoped to start a fight in the senate to amend the rules. The senate meeting today in extraordinary session for the purpose of considering nominations may be in session for some time. Friends of Senator La Follette declared that he will reply to the president's statement as soon as he gets the opportunity. Other senators whose course of conduct is reflected on are expected to set forth their position. A real fight between the executive and the senate is forecast which may greatly impede the transaction of any business in the senate.

When the last session of the senate met Senator John W. Kern of Indiana, the Democratic leader, was sponsor for a movement to change the rules and thus avoid such a situation as resulted in the death of the armed neutrality bill. Canvass of the membership however revealed the fact that the majority were opposed to any such action. It was argued at that time that the position of the senate was such that it needed its ancient rules to act as a check on the house which jammed through most of the legislation under gag rules. Whether the senate now will see the light is a proposition upon which none of the members would hazard a guess today.

The legislation which President Wilson has discovered will prevent him arming American merchant vessels are the laws of 1818 and 1819. The first law permits the arming of merchantmen against pirates. A second specifically prohibits such armed merchantmen from opposing [illegible] against an aggression by a public armed vessel of any nation in amity with the United States. Submarines are public armed vessels and the United States at present is in amity with Germany despite the breaking of diplomatic relations.

Meanwhile pending a clarification of the situation it was stated with authority that the president would mark time in dealing with the general submarine situation. He hopes it is known that the senate will amend its rules so that an extra session can be called.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Is there any truth to that rumor that the Jefferson League is preparing to make up the Democratic slate for the November election?" asked the friend of the street corner politician.

"Can't say that I have heard anything about it," replied the politician "but I would not be surprised."

"Why?" asked the friend.

"Because some of the most prominent members of the Democratic party are members of the League," said the politician.

"Is that so?" said the friend.

"Who started the League anyway?" asked the friend following a pause.

"Why I understand that Former County Clerk William C. DeWitt decided it would not be a bad idea to have such an organization to carry on 'my policies!'" explained the politician.

"What are the policies of the League anyway?" queried the friend.

"To promote good feeling among the rank and file of the Democratic party," said the politician "and to have a working organization with which a slate could be put in the field with a fair chance of getting some backing."

"Have they got good material in the party?" asked the friend.

"Well," said the politician thoughtfully, "they have such good and well known old war horses of the Democratic party as Mr. DeWitt, Captain Michael Meagher and Supervisor Quigley."

"Their names seem familiar," said the friend.

"They ought to be," replied the politician for their owners have bled and died for the party."

"Is that so?" exclaimed the friend.

"It sure is, retorted the politician, "why I can remember yet the thrilling speeches that Mr. DeWitt and Captain Meagher made during the past campaign from the tail board of an automobile."

"I must have heard them speak then," said the friend.

"Sure," said the politician, "who has not heard of 'My Flying Squadron.'"

"Seems to me we elect a sheriff this year," said the friend.

"We do," replied the politician.

"Who is the Jefferson League booming for the office," asked the friend.

"The way I understand it," replied the politician, "the leaders have not decided as yet but are thinking that either Mr. DeWitt or Mr. Quigley would make likely timber."

"What do you think of it?" asked the friend.

"Well between us," said the politician, "it won't make much difference for no matter who runs on the Democratic ticket he will be defeated."

"Who do you think they will run for mayor this year?" asked the friend.

"I hardly think that Ernest Kearney will be prevailed upon to offer himself a sacrifice," replied the politician, "but they might persuade Captain Michael Meagher to run."

"Would he make a good candidate?" asked the friend.

"Well," said the politician judiciously, "he has had considerable experience in stump speeching."

"The best idea would be to have Mr. DeWitt and Mr. Quigley have full charge of the ticket as they have had considerable experience," said the politician.

"What do you mean?" asked the friend.

"Both men," explained the politician "have had considerable experience in running the party," and they if left alone would put up a first class slate."

"But what would the other members of the Jefferson League say?" queried the friend.

"Nothing," retorted the politician.

"Nothing," exclaimed the friend incredulously.

"That's right," explained the politician, "if the other members of the League are given a chance to orate that is all they will care for."

"Why?" asked the friend.

"Think of the honor of getting your speeches run in the official organ," replied the politician with a smile.

ROSENDALE.

The Misses Anna and Mary Mullany spent the week end at their home in this village.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Home is the one place in all this world where hearts are sure of each other. It is the place of confidence. It is the spot where expressions of tenderness gush out without any sensation of awkwardness and without any dread of ridicule.—Frederick W. Robertson.

WINTER VEGETABLES.

The potato is our only starchy vegetable in common use. These are stored for winter use with such other vegetables as beets, carrots, cabbage, turnips, parsnips, salsify and onions. If stored under proper conditions, all these vegetables keep without much loss. Such vegetables, if bought or stored in season, cost less than many other articles of diet. These vegetables carry a large amount of water, 70 to 90 per cent, and from 10 to 30 per cent of solids. As there is little or no nitrogenous matter, it is important that such food should be supplied with them, an exclusive vegetable diet is consequently not desirable. There is a considerable quantity of mineral salts in them, and the woody fiber which they contain make them an important food. When used with other foods rich in protein the tubers and roots supply a large amount of fuel for the body's needs. The coarse, woody fiber, though undigested itself, holds other foods, so that the digestive juices have better action upon them, as they could not if the food were in a solid mass.

The mineral salts in vegetables are used in various ways in the functions of the body; they also assist in the maintenance of the alkalinity of the blood, a most important office.

We are not familiar enough with the value of vegetables, or fail when reading their food value to put the emphasis on the valuable constituents. Vegetables require some labor to prepare, hence many housewives buy canned goods which are not an economy to the buyer when fresh winter vegetables may be obtained. Where one cans her own vegetables in the season of plenty, canned vegetables are valuable, as they afford a larger variety.

There should never be one spoonful of left-over vegetables wasted. Two or three may be added to a cream soup, making one a little out of the ordinary.

FERRYBOAT HAS RESUMED SERVICE

The tub Rob and the ferryboat Transport combined forces this morning and succeeded in opening the ferry channel to Rhinebeck. Some hours work was required before the heavy ice could be smashed up. The Transport made a trip across in the forenoon and it was hoped that the regular schedules would be resumed this afternoon. Suspension of the service was made two weeks ago on account of the ice but for the last few days travel over the river in sleighs has been dangerous.

High Cost of Living.

The researches of Professor Mead of the University of California show that 310 men own 4,000,000 acres of the best land on the continent and that one railroad owns 5,000,000 acres.

The report of the secretary of agriculture shows that less than half of the arable land in the United States is under cultivation.

Here is a suggestion for those seeking the cause of the high cost of living.—St. Paul News.

Borrowed Books.

Whenever you lend a book jot down in a small blank book kept in a convenient place for that purpose the date, the name of the person to whom the book is lent and the title of the book. This will prove a safeguard against losing books or forgetting where they are to the person who allows many books to be taken from his library.

Tyranny.

An Adventurous American

By ALAN HINSDALE

Why Edward Delano, an American, with no especial sympathy with either side in the pan-European war, left a luxurious home to take part in it seems a mystery. And when we consider that he entered the aviation service to face the dangers of the land far up in the air, a position trying enough by itself without adding to the fact that one is liable to be dropped, not from a break of machinery, but a shot fired for the purpose, his action is hard to understand.

Delano entered the French aviation corps composed of Americans. He made flights from that part of Belgium which is nearest Zeebrugge, the base of the German flying machines. One day when he was sailing over the North sea near the coast he saw a little cigar shaped boat beneath him on the surface of the water, which he took for a submarine. It occurred to him that if he could swoop down low enough to get a good aim he might toss a bomb on to it and sink it. He didn't have much fear of it, for its guns were not made for sending shot into the upper air.

Circling, he drew a spiral down to within a couple of hundred feet. He feared to lose the game by its being submerged. But the captain had no such intention. Delano dropped a bomb, which stirred the water a hundred feet from the submarine. Not receiving a shot in return, he descended to within a hundred feet of his enemy and dropped another bomb. This struck the water about fifty feet on the other side of the submarine. He was getting a third bomb ready when a man with a rifle appeared on the submarine and fired a shot which exploded Ned's gasoline tank.

Ned was dropped into the water a dozen feet from the submarine. There was nothing for him to do but to strike out for the cigar shaped boat and give himself up. This he did and was received on board with praise for his daring.

However, there was no place to confine him, and there seemed to be no necessity to do so. He was made to do the work of one of the crew, the vessel being short handed, and this gave him the liberty of a man with duties to perform. His love for novelty was satisfied, for the boat frequently dived, and when she did Ned dived with her. Used as he was to sailing up in the air, he could not repress a sense of smothering at going down under the water the first time.

One day when the submarine was on the surface of the water a ship came in sight flying the British flag. Ned saw at once that he was liable to witness the destruction of a vessel. The submarine kept to the eastward of its intended victim and when the evening twilight came had the ship against it, while the submarine was in darkness. Then she pushed forward till within striking distance and called on the British ship's crew to get into their boats.

The order was obeyed, and a number of shots were put into the hull below the water line. Ned saw her go down stem first, almost as a swimmer taking a dive, only the diver reappears, which the vessel did not.

While this was occurring darkness was falling. The last Ned saw of the ship's crew they were in their boats, the rowers resting on their oars watching their ship make her last plunge. What they did afterward could not be seen for the darkness. Ned wondered what they would do. Would they pull for the English or the Belgian coast? The distance to land eastward was so much less than westward that he believed they would take that direction. Likely they had taken a compass into their boats, which would give them their course.

Naturally the idea of escape from the submarine connected itself in his mind with the boats, though the hope of reaching them seemed madness. He was obliged to take his turn with the watch on deck. A couple of hours after the sinking of the ship he heard the sound of oars. Inferring that they were from the boats of the sunken ship, he listened eagerly. The sound—there were a number of boats pulling together—came from the west toward the submarine. The crew of the latter heard them, but, inferring that they were the sailors they had dispossessed, paid no attention to them.

Ned paid a good deal of attention to them. Getting as far from the rest of the watch as possible, he awaited the approach of the comers. He made up his mind that they would pass near the submarine, but whether south or north of it he could not tell. Presently he thought he heard them coming on the south.

Dare he try to join them? There was no light on the submarine's deck, and he could easily slide into the water and swim for them. If he missed them he would be lost. If he made them he would secure his freedom.

"Here goes!" he said to himself, and, lying down, he rolled into the water, which was so near to him that he made no splash. Once in the brine he began to swim lustily in the direction of the sounds. He swam perhaps a quarter of a mile when he heard a rear boat near him. He gave as loud a cry as he could. It was unheard. He gave another and realized that on it depended his life. Nevertheless it was more feeble than the last.

The sounds of rowing ceased. Taking advantage of the stillness, he gave one more cry. It was heard, a boat pulled toward him and took him aboard.

The Average Way.

One trouble with the country is the way so many of our young men feel that there's no chance to get to the top in this era of combination, consolidation and big business, and so contentedly settle down to do as little work as possible.—Ohio State Journal.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Sleepy Time Story About Two Rather Smart Rogues.

HOW ONE FOUND MISFORTUNE.

Meeting in the Woods Enlivened by a Lively Battle of Wits—The Flatterer Gains His Point, but Gets No Pleasure From the Victory.

Tonight, said Uncle Ben to Little Ned and Polly Ann, I am going to tell you about

A FOX AND A CROW.

Mr. Crow was a sad thief. He hadn't been very well brought up, and he didn't quite understand that it is very, very wrong to take things that don't belong to you.

So when he saw a nice piece of cheese in a cottage window he wanted it very much. He waited until no one was about, and then he flew down and took the cheese.

Off to the woods he flew, thinking no one had seen him, but in this he made a mistake. Mr. Fox had seen him. Mr. Fox was prowling about the chicken house, wondering if he could not carry off a nice fat hen for dinner.

When Mr. Fox saw Mr. Crow sneak off with the piece of cheese he started right after him. Mr. Fox liked cheese too.

When he reached Mr. Crow he found him perching on top of a tall pine tree with the cheese fondly balanced in his bill.

"My dear Mr. Crow, how are you?" Mr. Fox began. "I'm delighted to see you. You're looking splendid. But, then, you always do look well, and your high spirits seem never to leave you. I heard yesterday you were the life of that charming party in Farmer Gruff's cornfield."

The crow looked so pleased that Mr. Fox went on:

"As you know, I never flatter, but I want to tell you how delighted I was with a little snatch of song I heard as I passed the cornfield. A more delicious voice than yours I have never heard. I wonder if you could repeat that little song for me? I had a little argument about it with Mr. Owl. He was sure the chorus ended with three caws instead of with a long drawn out caw, as I said it did."

"Caw, caw!" began the crow, and the cheese fell right into Mr. Fox's open mouth. He gobbled it down in a second and then trotted off through the woods, laughing to think how easily he had fooled Mr. Crow.

The cheese which the crow had stolen had been fixed by the housewife for the rats that troubled her greatly. She had only laid it in the window for a minute before she took it to the cellar to put in some dark corner to tempt a rat. Inside of the cheese was poison, and when Mr. Fox swallowed it he began to feel dreadfully ill. By the time the crow came along looking for his cheese the fox was too ill to speak. It took a long time for him to get well, and now I don't know whether he hates cheese or crows the most.

Snowflakes.

The Difference.

CZAR FERDINAND

CZAR FERDINAND OF BULGARIA REPORTED SERIOUSLY ILL.

(Czar Ferdinand.)

Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria, who, according to dispatches received at Home, is seriously ill at an Austrian health resort.

Lines to Be Remembered.

Today is your day and mine; the only day we have; the day in which we play our part. What our part may signify in the great whole we may not understand; but we are here to play it, and now is our time. This we know: It is a part of action, not of whining. It is a part of love, not cynicism. It is for us to express love in terms of human helpfulness. This we know, for we have learned from sad experience that any other course of life lends toward decay and waste. —David Starr Jordan.

State Commissioner of Health Tells How to Meet the High Cost of Living

Albany.—Acting State Commissioner of Health Linsly R. Williams issued today a dietary, based on the present cost of the various food articles recommended, especially prepared for the Department by Professor Graham Lusk of Cornell University in co-operation with Mrs. Mary Schwartz Rose, Assistant Professor, Teachers' College, Columbia University. The daily bill of fare provides a dietary of high efficiency for a family of five persons, with the father at work and the mother caring for the household.

ESSENTIALS.—Do not buy meat until you have bought three quarts of milk a day. Milk contains valuable tissue building food, valuable salts and invaluable vitamines which help to sound health.

If you buy bread remember that day old bread is much cheaper than freshly baked bread and is just as good a food.

The menus may be arranged as follows:

BREAKFAST.	LUNCHEON OR SUPPER.	DINNER.
Corn meal mush,* fried (+ milk for children and corn-syrup for adults).	Pork and beans* (bean soup for young children).	Lentil soup.*
Bread (or toast).	Bread.	Boiled rice.†
Oleomargarine or other butter substitute.	Oleomargarine or other butter substitute.	Tomato catsup.
Coffee (for adults).	Tea with milk and sugar for adults.	Bread.
Stewed prunes.	Milk for youngest children.	Oleomargarine or other butter substitute.
Orange juice for baby.	Cereal coffee or cocoa for older children.	Tea for adults.
	Sliced bananas with sugar.†	Milk for youngest child.
*Or oatmeal, or hominy, or farina, or buckwheat cakes.		Dried apple pie with cheese for adults.
	*Or creamed dried beef on toast.	Dried apple sauce for others.
	†Or stewed dried peaches or the bananas may be boiled in their skins.	*Or potato, or bean, or pea soup. †Or spaghetti, or macaroni (with cheese), or baked split peas with bacon.

The approximate cost per day and the nutritive values in calories appear below:

	Amount.	Calories.	Cost in cents.
Coffee	2½ ounces		3
Tea	½ ounce		2
Milk	3 quarts	1500	27
Bread	2 pounds	2500	9
Cereal	½ pound	500	4
Oleomargarine	¾ pound	2500	13
Corn-syrup	½ pound	650	2
Sugar	¼ pound	450	2
Rice or macaroni	1 pound	1600	8
Dry navy beans	10 ounces	1000	7
Fat pork	6½ ounces	1000	6
Dry fruit (prunes)	1 pound	325	12
Flour, lard, etc., for pie or other extras		1300	10
		14,425	111

The cheaper meats: pork sausages, braised chuck rib of beef, salt cod or herring may be added if finances allow.

Thrift Thought.

Get the thrift habit—the broad thrift habit, now; practice it thoughtfully; waste not the little things; find the joy that a growing bank account brings; invest your savings safely and profitably; remember tomorrow but forget not today; spend for the things that last and find the secret of the broader thrift that makes for better living. It is the only thrift worth while.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Is there any truth to that rumor that the Jefferson League is preparing to make up the Democratic slate for the November election?" asked the friend of the street corner politician.

"Can't say that I have heard anything about it," replied the politician "but I would not be surprised."

"Why?" asked the friend.

"Because some of the most prominent members of the Democratic party are members of the League," said the politician.

"Is that so?" said the friend.

"Who started the League anyway?" asked the friend following a pause.

"Why I understand that Former County Clerk William C. DeWitt decided it would not be a bad idea to have such an organization to carry on 'my policies'," explained the politician.

"What are the policies of the League anyway?" queried the friend.

"To promote good feeling among the rank and file of the Democratic party," said the politician "and to have a working organization with which a slate could be put in the field with a fair chance of getting some backing."

"Have they got good material in the party?" asked the friend

"Well," said the politician thoughtfully, "they have such good and well known old war horses of the Democratic party as Mr. DeWitt, Captain Michael Meagher and Supervisor Quigley."

"Their names seem familiar," said the friend.

"They ought to be," replied the politician for their owners have bled and died for the party."

"Is that so?" exclaimed the friend.

"It sure is, retorted the politician, "why I can remember yet the thrilling speeches that Mr. DeWitt and Captain Meagher made during the past campaign from the tail board of an automobile."

"I must have heard them speak then," said the friend.

"Sure," said the politician, "who has not heard of 'My Flying Squadron.'"

"Seems to me we elect a sheriff this year," said the friend.

"We do," replied the politician.

"Who is the Jefferson League booming for the office," asked the friend.

"The way I understand it," replied the politician. "the leaders have not decided as yet but are thinking that either Mr. DeWitt or Mr. Quigley would make likely timber."

"What do you think of it?" asked the friend.

"Well between us," said the politician, "it won't make much difference for no matter who runs on the Democratic ticket he will be defeated."

"Who do you think they will run for mayor this year?" asked the friend

"I hardly think that Ernest Kearney will be prevailed upon to offer himself a sacrifice," replied the politician, "but they might persuade Captain Michael Meagher to run."

"Would he make a good candidate?" asked the friend.

"Well," said the politician, judiciously "he has had considerable experience in stump speeching."

"The best idea would be to have Mr. DeWitt and Mr. Quigley have full charge of the ticket as they have had considerable experience," said the politician.

"What do you mean?" asked the friend.

"Both men," explained the politician "have had considerable experience in running the party," and they if left alone would put up a first class slate."

"But what would the other members of the Jefferson League say?" queried the friend.

"Nothing," retorted the politician

"Nothing," exclaimed the friend incredulously.

"That's right," explained the politician, "if the other members of the League are given a chance to orate that is all they will care for."

"What?" asked the friend

"Think of the honor of getting your speeches run in the official organ," replied the politician with a smile.

ROSENDALE

WINTER VEGETABLES.

The potato is our only starchy vegetable in common use. These are stored for winter use with such other vegetables as beets, carrots, cabbage, turnips, parsnips, salsify and onions. If stored under proper conditions, all these vegetables keep without much loss. Such vegetables, if bought or stored in season, cost less than many other articles of diet. These vegetables carry a large amount of water, 70 to 90 per cent, and from 10 to 30 per cent of solids. As there is little or no nitrogenous matter, it is important that such food should be supplied with them, an exclusive vegetable diet is consequently not desirable. There is a considerable quantity of mineral salts in them, and the woody fiber which they contain make them an important food. When used with other foods rich in protein the tubers and roots supply a large amount of fuel for the body's needs. The coarse, woody fiber, though undigested itself, holds other foods, so that the digestive juices have better action upon them, as they could not if the food were in a solid mass.

The mineral salts in vegetables are used in various ways in the functions of the body; they also assist in the maintenance of the alkalinity of the blood, a most important office.

We are not familiar enough with the value of vegetables, or fail when reading their food value to put the emphasis on the valuable constituents. Vegetables require some labor to prepare, hence many housewives buy canned goods which are not an economy to the buyer when fresh winter vegetables may be obtained. Where one cans her own vegetables in the season of plenty, canned vegetables are valuable, as they afford a larger variety.

There should never be one spoonful of left-over vegetables wasted. Two or three may be added to a cream soup, making one a little out of the ordinary.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 5, 1917.

When the Democratic reformers "purified" the House of Representatives of "Cannonism," the majority party in Congress assured the country that representative government had been restored in both branches and that the oldtime rule of the few had been banished forever. After four years of political purity, the country is naturally shocked from one end to the other at the spectacle of the Armed Neutrality Bill being talked to death by a dozen Senators, placed in command of the field through a parliamentary situation and not through any marked division of sentiment as to the propriety of the President's course. The Round Robin signed by seventy-six Senators shows their sentiments unmistakably, but to no effective end. The rules under which the upper house of the greatest legislative body in the world operates permit of the most outrageous dilatory tactics being put into play. Until unanimous consent is obtained, the United States Senate is powerless to proceed with any subject of business. Should one of its members become insane, he could continue to hold up proceedings just as long as physical endurance permitted him to talk. It is an unparalleled situation, one which the calling of the Sixty-fifth Congress in extraordinary session would not remedy unless public opinion made itself so plain as to enforce an amendment of the present archaic rules in force in the Senate. The situation is one of the most humiliating in which the republic has ever found itself. All of the responsibility for this condition does not rest upon the Senate but is shared by the Administration and the party in power.

Military preparation for any eventuality which may arise within the year is left at a standstill, this being another of the legacies of the mischievous filibuster which marked the expiration of the Sixty-Fourth Congress. The military, civil and general deficiency bills went by the board, the appropriations in these measures totalling more than a half billion dollars, all of which will be necessary to the conduct of the Federal government after July 1st. The only consolation lies in the fact that the conference measures providing for extensions to the navy and additions to our sea defenses were agreed upon. In this direction, the Administration has no obstacle in its path, and it may well be hoped that our Danielses and others in charge of our naval policy will take advantage of the co-operation promised from private shipyards and industrial enterprises which have shown a disposition to give precedence to all Government work. The new law authorizes three superdreadnoughts, a large battle cruiser, three scout cruisers and a flotilla of sixty-eight submarines to be equipped with some recent improvements due to American inventive genius which have been kept secret. It appears that the wherewithal to make our naval defenses what they should be is at last within the grasp of the Government. Let us pray that the best use possible will be made of these immense appropriations, as in the navy lies the republic's chief hope as against any foreign invader.

Approximately a half million of tons of enemy and neutral shipping went to the bottom of the ocean during the first month of unrestricted submarine warfare. The Germans were confident of the ability of their undersea craft to sink at least a million tons a month, but it is plain that their first efforts did not result on the scale anticipated. It is true, however, that weather conditions over which the Kaiser, despite his closeness to Deity, has no control may prove more favorable to the operations of the submersibles as Spring advances. In other directions the effect of the renewed activity of the U-boats has been most serious. The slump in exports from New York harbor, attributed to this cause, was no less than forty per cent for February, when a hundred fewer ships sailed than in the preceding month. Exact data, obtainable within a few days from the Federal port officials, will show the scope of this slump. That England, too, is feeling the pinch of the curtailment of her shipping is made apparent by statements of members of her Government who do not conceal their anxiety over the outlook. The next two months will tell the story of the efficacy of the submarine, the last weapon pressed into service by Frightfulness facing defeat.

Idle curiosity on the part of individuals might be all right if it could be kept idle. When it becomes an active, working force, such curiosity is a menace to the comfort and safety of others. The rush to the telephone to find out the location of a fire is an instance in point. On Sunday night the service of the Kingston exchange was handicapped by the demands of subscribers eager to learn the nature of the fire for which two alarms were sent in. The staff of operators was unable to meet the rush of calls and other subscribers with legitimate business over the telephone were left in the lurch, no matter how acute their need for communication may have been. The telephone company should enforce the rule refusing information as to fires. The intelligent majority of subscribers will uphold that policy. A telephone company is not an information bureau, but merely a means of communication. It should stick to the last.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Old Roxleigh—"What are your resources?" Nervy Suitor—"Well, I have two other rich girls willing to marry me if I cannot have your daughter.—Boston Transcript.

"I have come to ask you for your daughter's hand," said the young man timidly to her father. "All right," said the old man joyfully, "but don't ever come around and ask me to take her back."—Judge.

"Bliggins affects to be a regular caveman." "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "But he doesn't carry out the idea. His clothes are sufficiently out of style to be annoying, without being prehistoric."—Washington Star.

"What's the matter, little girl?" "Two boys were fightin' and I got struck with a stone." "That's it; the innocent bystander always gets hurt." "But I don't know as I was an innocent bystander. I was what they was fightin' about."—Yonkers Statesman.

It Pervades all Space.

The teacher's last question was meant to be a scientific poser, according to the Chicago Herald. "What is that which pervades all space," she said, "which no wall or door or other substances can shut out?" No one had an answer ready but Freddy Sharpe. "The smell of onions, miss," he said promptly.

Perfectly Natural Act.

When the train stopped at an inland Virginia station the northern tourist sauntered out on the platform. Beneath a tall pine stood a lean animal with scraggy bristles. The tourist was interested. "What do you call that?" he queried of a lanky "cracker." "Razorback hawg." "Well, what is he doing rubbing against that tree?" "He's stropping himself, mister; jest stropping himself."—Harper's Magazine.

Youthful Politeness.

Paul's father had been trying to inculcate in his young son a sense of chivalry toward his little sister, with the injunction, "Ladies first always, Paul." The boy inwardly resented what seemed to him an injustice in this preference, but his opportunity to turn it to advantage came. Toward evening one day their mother sent the children on an errand to the cellar. The door opening upon the dark, abysmal regions below, had its usual effect upon small children. But the boy was reluctant to admit his fear. Turning to his sister, and holding open the door, he said, suavely: "Ladies first, Louise!"—Harper's Magazine.

Newly Made Aristocrats.

Nobody ever mentions it since they have come into money, but there were scoffing spirits in the village who had been well known to aver that at one time Wellerby, senior, had been a taxi driver, comments the London Tit-Bits. If that had been so, young Wellerby had managed very successfully to banish the memory of these days from his mind. There was a reception one day recently and the young heir to the millions was observed to be ostentatiously showing off the family seal. It represented St. George and the dragon. "One of my ancestors, you know," he observed pompously, "is said to have killed a dragon." "Good gracious!" said a scoffer near by. "How did he manage it? Did he—er—did he run over it?"

PROCLAMATION.

The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent: To the sheriff of the county of Ulster, Greeting:—We command you that you summon to be and appear at a term of the supreme court of the state of New York, to be held by a justice of the supreme court, at the court house, in Kingston, in and for the county of Ulster, on the 1st Monday of March, 1917, the several persons who shall have been drawn to serve as grand and petit jurors at the said court. And we further command you to bring before the said court all prisoners then being in the jail of the said county of Ulster, together with all the processes and proceedings any way concerning them in your hands. And we further command you to make proclamation in the manner prescribed by law, notifying all persons bound to appear at the said court, by recognizance or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all justices of the peace, coroners and other officers who have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said court, or who have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations, to the said court on the opening thereof on the first day of its sitting, and have then and there this precept.

Witness, Hon. William P. Rudd, one of the Justices of our Supreme Court, at the Court House, in Kingston, in said County, the 10th day af February, 1917.

F. G. TRAVER,
District Attorney.

In pursuance to the above precept, I hereby make proclamation that a term of the supreme court of the state of New York and jail delivery, will be held at the court house in Kingston, in and for the County of Ulster, on the 1st Monday of March next, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day; and all persons who will prosecute against persons confined in the jail of said county are required to be then and there present, to proceed as may be just; and all persons bound to appear at the said court, by recognizance or otherwise, are required to appear thereat; and all justices of the peace, coroners or other officers who may have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said court, or who may have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, are required to return such recognizance, inquisition and examination, to the said court, at the opening thereof, and on the first day of the sitting thereof, and to be then and there present with their rolls and records, indictments and remembrances, to do those things which to their offices pertain.

The Queen's Dining Room

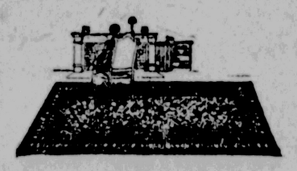

IT WAS Queen Mary who made china collecting popular in her day. This vogue naturally influenced furniture styles, and William and Mary designs are therefore particularly appropriate for the dining room.

With good judgment and skill, the elements of this romantic period have been adapted to present-day furniture needs.

This idea is one of the factors in the success of Berkey & Gay furniture. Classic forms as illustrated are so handled by their artists as to be charmingly conformable to the average home.

Dining suits may be had at prices which are reasonable, and quality considered, remarkable. You are invited to inspect them.

Growth of VanWagenen's Sets the Pace for Kingston's Development

FORTY-SIX years ago Van Wagenen's was little more than a vision, as nebulous as the morning mists which sometimes hang over the Hudson Valley, where its name has long ago been made known as the synonym for THE BEST in modern merchandising. Today VanWagenen's stands strong and dominant as the busiest department store in Kingtosn. Crowds from Ulster and adjacent counties are attracted hither by the knowledge that at VanWagenen's they can always find values that are worth while, coupled with efficient, obliging service.

In volume of trade, in superiority of Service, as well as in the Style and Quality of it's Merchandise, VanWagenen's stands out with distinction as the embodiment of its advertising slogan ---"KINGSTON'S FOREMOST STORE." It has formed an integral part of this city's growth, otfen blazing the trail for Kingston's commercial growth thruout adjoining Towns and Counties---and always without successful contradiction of its daring leadership.

The culmination of forty-six years of business success can be fittingly commemorated only by thanking sincerely those who have made our growth and expansion possible---whose loyal support has been the all-important factor in the upbuilding of this gigantic enterprise.

WE HEARTILY INVITE THE PUBLIC GENERALLY to share with us the celebration which will mark in a gala manner this epoch in our business career.

For this event we have prepared magnificently determined that our 46th Birthday shall live long in the memory of our store friends as an occasion of festive gaiety, resplendent with pleasant relations between the store and its customers.

When our doors are opened Tuesday morning, the whole building, from basement to roof, will be aglow with offerings that will hold magnetic attractions for the economic guide of visitors---bargains that will proclaim our Birthday Jubilee as the Premier Value-Giving Event of the Year.

Very Respectfully, L. B. VANWAGENEN CO.

FERRYBOAT HAS RESUMED SERVICE

The tub Rob and the ferryboat Transport combined forces this morning and succeeded in opening the ferry channel to Rhinebeck. Some hours work was required before the heavy ice could be smashed up. The Transport made a trip across in the forenoon and it was hoped that the regular schedules would be resumed this afternoon. Suspension of the service was made two weeks ago on account of the ice, but for the last few days travel over the river in sleighs has been dangerous.

An Adventurous American

By ALAN HINSDALE

Why Edward Delano an American with no especial sympathy with either side in the pan European war left a luxurious home to take part in it seems a mystery And when we consider that he entered the aviation service to face the dangers of the land far up in the air a position trying enough by itself without adding to the fact that one is liable to be dropped not from a break of machinery but a shot fired for the purpose his action is hard to understand

Delano entered the French aviation corps composed of Americans He made flights from that part of Belgium which is nearest Zeebrugge the base of the German flying machines One day when he was sailing over the North sea near the coast he saw a little cigar shaped boat beneath him on the surface of the water which he took for a submarine It occurred to him that if he could swoop down low enough to get a good aim he might toss a bomb on to it and sink it He didn't have much fear of it for its guns were not made for sending shot into the upper air

Circling he drew a spiral down to within a couple of hundred feet He feared to lose the game by its being submerged But the captain had no such intention Delano dropped a bomb which turned the water a hundred feet from the submarine Not receiving a shot in return he descended to within a hundred feet of his enemy and dropped another bomb This struck the water about fifty feet ?? ?? side of the submarine He was getting a third bomb ready when a man with a rifle appeared on the submarine and fired a shot which exploded Ned's gasoline tank

Ned was dropped into the water a dozen feet from the submarine There was nothing for him to do but to strike out for the cigar shaped boat and give himself up This he did and was received on board with praise for his daring

However there was no place to confine him and there seemed to be no necessity to do so He was made to do the work of one of the crew the vessel being short handed and this gave him the liberty of a man with duties to perform His love for novelty was satisfied for the boat frequently dived and when she did Ned dived with her Used as he was to sailing up in the air he could not repress a sense of smothering at going down under the water the first time

One day when the submarine was on the surface of the water a ship came on ?? ?? flying the British flag Ned saw at once that he was liable to witness the destruction of a vessel The submarine kept to the eastward of the intended victim and when the evening twilight came and the ship was just in ?? ?? the submarine was in readiness ?? ?? forward till within striking distance and ?? ?? on the ?? ?? into ?? at

The order was obeyed and a number of ?? ?? into the hull ?? ?? ?? down she ?? ?? ?? ?? swimmer ?? ?? ?? ?? ?? which the ?? ?? not

While ?? ?? ?? ?? darkness ?? ?? ?? ?? ?? ?? of the ship ?? ?? ?? their lots the ?? ?? ?? their oars watching their ?? ?? ?? ?? strange What they did afterward could not be seen for the darkness Ned wondered what they would do Would they pull for the English or the Belgian coast? The distance to land eastward was so much less than westward that he believed they would take that direction ?? they had taken a compass into their boats which would give them their course

Naturally the idea of escape from the submarine connected itself in his mind with the boats though the hope of reaching them seemed madness He was obliged to take his turn with the watch on deck A couple of hours after the sinking of the ship he heard the sound of oars Inferring that they were from the boats of the sunken ship he listened eagerly The sound—there were a number of boats pulling together—came from the west toward the submarine The crew of the latter heard them but inferring that they were the sailors they had dispossessed paid no attention to them

Ned paid a good deal of attention to them Getting as far from the rest of the watch as possible he awaited the approach of the comers He made up his mind that they would pass near the submarine but whether south or north of it he could not tell Presently he thought he heard them coming on the south

Dare he try to join them There was no light on the submarine's deck and he could easily slide into the water and swim for them If he missed them he would be lost If he made them he would secure his freedom

"Here goes!" he said to himself and lying down he rolled into the water which was so near to him that he made no splash Once in the brine he began to swim lustily in the direction of the sounds He swam perhaps a quarter of a mile when he heard a rear boat near him He gave as loud a cry as he could It was unheard He gave another and realized that on it depended his life Nevertheless it was more feeble than the last

The sounds of rowing ceased Taking advantage of the stillness he gave one more cry It was heard A boat pulled toward him and took him aboard.

The Average Way

Sleepy Time Story About Two Rather Smart Rogues.

HOW ONE FOUND MISFORTUNE.

Meeting In the Woods Enlivened by a Lively Battle of Wits—The Flatterer Gains His Point, but Gets No Pleasure From the Victory.

Tonight said Uncle Ben to Little Ned and Polly Ann, I am going to tell you about

A FOX AND A CROW.

Mr Crow was a sad thief He hadn't been very well brought up and he didn't quite understand that it is very very wrong to take things that don't belong to you

So when he saw a nice piece of cheese in a cottage window he wanted it very much He waited until no one was about and then he flew down and took the cheese

Off to the woods he flew thinking no one had seen him but in this he made a mistake Mr Fox had seen him Mr Fox was prowling about the chicken house wondering if he could not carry off a nice fat hen for dinner

When Mr Fox saw Mr Crow sneak off with the piece of cheese he started right after him Mr Fox liked cheese too

When he reached Mr Crow he found him perching on top of a tall pine tree with the cheese fondly balanced in his bill

My dear Mr Crow how are you Mr Fox began I'm delighted to see you You're looking splendid But then you always do look well and your high spirits seem never to leave you I heard yesterday you were the life of the charming party in Farmer Gruff's cornfield

The crow looked so pleased that Mr Fox went on

As you know I never flatter but I want to tell you how delighted I was with a little snatch of song I heard as I passed the cornfield A more delicious voice than yours I have never heard I wonder if you could repeat that little one for me? I had a little argument about it with Mr Owl He was sure the chorus ended with three caws instead of with a long drawn out caw as I said it did

Caw caw! began the crow and the cheese fell right into Mr Fox's open mouth He gobbled it down in a second and then trotted off through the woods laughing to think how easily he had fooled Mr Crow

The cheese which the crow had stolen had been fixed by the housewife for the rats that troubled her greatly She had only laid it in the window for a minute before she took it to the cellar to put in some dark corner to tempt a rat Inside of the cheese was poison and when Mr Fox swallowed it he began to feel dreadfully ill By the time the crow came along looking for his cheese the fox was too ill to sneak It took a long time for him to get well and now I don't know whether he hates cheese or crows the most

Today is your day and mine the only day we have the day in which we play our part What our part may signify in the great whole we may not understand, but we are here to play it, and now is our time. This we know It is a part of action not of whining It is a part of love not cynicism. It is for us to express love in terms of human helpfulness. This we know, for we have learned from sad experience that any other course of life leads toward decay and waste.—David Starr Jordan

The music is sparkling and melodious and the comedy is all that could be desired. The seat sale will open Tuesday.

Driver Goes Through Ice.

Harry Isaacson of 16 Ann street, one of the drivers of a sleigh operating across the ice from Rondout to Rhinebeck, had a narrow escape this morning about 9 o'clock when his horse went through the ice near the middle of the river. Other drivers helped to get horse, sleigh and man out. The ice is said to be thin in the river and rotten in spots near air holes.

NECK FIXINGS.

Gay Colors and Collarless Effects the Thing.

Just when it seemed that the white collar had become an obsolete feature of dresses it shows evidence of reviving, and it may be said that the broad collar of satin or of lingerie fabrics will be one of the principal attractions of incoming fashions.

As things are at the present moment many women look as if they had dressed in a hurry and omitted the important item of neckwear. The French designer who brought out the collarless frock had in mind the eternally young and piquant type of girl. As this type is limited, despite all efforts to the contrary, it follows that only the favored few look well dressed in the gown sans collar.

There is something rather commendable in the dress that exploits a neck finish of a gay color. It is in keeping with the trend of fashion that emphasizes everything connected with sport wear, whether the garment in question has anything to do with athletic life or otherwise.

Some of the color combinations are decidedly startling. One finds green associated with purple, and yellow with old rose, and turquoise with pink. Usually the collar is of satin, and this in itself supplies a decorative note when the dress is of wool jersey, serge or similar fabric.

Frequently it happens that the color of the collar is repeated in the facing of the sash. A recent model shows a collar whose front lines are extended to give a four-in-hand effect. The front of the bodice shows two slashes, and through these the ends of the cravat are passed.

FOR TEN-YEAR-OLDS.

Flesh colored linen cut kilt skirt, wide belt, bolero and patch pockets, always a childish delight, give this good model for school gowns. It is not so simple as it looks, for hours were consumed doing the small scallops that finish all edges.

The Slender Throat.

Too much flesh on the neck is a fatal bar to beauty. It is far simpler to put flesh on a woman's throat than to take it off, for if the tissues are fed with a good skin food, such as cocoa butter, the neck will soon begin to round out. On the other hand, only exercise of the most vigorous sort will reduce the size of the throat. For a tendency to a double chin and to tighten the muscles which have become loosened, try this simple exercise: Throw the head back as far as it will go, drawing the muscles tight. Now turn the head slowly as far to the right as you can and then to the left. Repeat ten times, increasing as you become accustomed to the strain. Massaging the neck with a piece of ice is excellent for keeping the flesh firm.

Colored Veils Worn.

Colored veils are being worn to a considerable extent. Beige, gray and navy are the most popular colors. The embroidered veil continues to dominate, yet one sees a combination of colors; for example, beige colored embroidery on a navy veil is smart, again gray on navy. Black and white combinations are making their appearance in increasing number. We note white chenille embroidery on a fine black hexagon mesh. There seems to be a wane in metallic embroidered veils.

Cheesecloth Bags.

Refrigerator bags are a comfort. They are plain and made of white cheesecloth, with white drawstrings at the top. The name of the contents of each bag is written in a running stitch across the side in a fast shade of blue. The celery bag is made long and slender, lettuce bag wide and short and parsley small and square.

A set of these bags is a welcome gift to a friend just starting housekeeping.

HOTEL CURRY OPENED TODAY.

Many Improvements Made in Former Hotel Ronan.

The Hotel Curry, formerly the Hotel Ronan, at No. 286 Wall street, which has been closed for several months, re-opened today under the management of Martin Curry, who has purchased the property.

The hotel has been thoroughly renovated and many improvements have been made. The restaurant will be conducted along modern lines and the cuisine will be first class in every respect.

Mr. Curry formerly conducted a well known hostelry at Tuxedo, until it was destroyed by fire. He had charge of several departments of the exclusive Tuxedo Club and is a thoroughgoing hotel man of extensive experience. The now famous Jack Rose cocktail was originated by Mr. Curry and named by him in honor of a family friend.

Prize for School Boy or Girl.

A prize is offered to the pupil of our public schools, either boy or girl, who sells the most tickets for the lecture to be given under the patronage of the Parent-Teachers' Associations of all of our schools, at the high school on the evening of Friday, March 9th, of this week. The lecturer will be Arthur P. Abbott, and his subject will be "First Americans." The prize will be a copy of Mr. Abbott's book, "The Hudson River of Today and Yesterday," which is finely illustrated and will contain the author's autograph. Such a prize should interest every boy and girl to do his or her best to sell the most tickets.

The question of the elimination of grade crossings is one of the most important in the schedule of work and it is hoped every member will show an active interest in the subject.

British Liner Sunk.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Buenos Ayres, March 5.—The British liner Drina, 11,443 tons, carrying passengers and a cargo of meat from Argentine to England, has been sunk, the local office of the Royal Mail Steamship announced today. Presumably she was attacked by a submarine. The passengers and crew were landed on the English coast. The Drina left the Rio de la Plata February 1, calling at Rio Janeiro and Lisbon.

Guard Against Jack Frost with "Exide" Starting & Lighting Service

JACK FROST is a real enemy of the Starting and Lighting Battery. Prepare your battery to resist his attacks by making sure that it is in good condition for its winter's work.

Remember, that your car is much harder to start in winter than in summer, and also that the long winter nights call for greater use of lights.

Drive around to our "Exide" Service Station and let us inspect your battery. We make no charge for this service. Expert attention at this time will assure you good service this winter and save you money.

If you do not run your car this winter—send your battery to us and let us care for it during the cold weather. We will give it proper care and return it to you in the spring in good condition. Our small charge for this service may save you the cost of a new battery in the spring.

ULSTER COUNTY'S AUTOMOBILE CENSUS

Now Has An Automobile to Every 26 Inhabitants—Last Year Had One to Every 38—Gain of 1,056 in a Year.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, March 5.—With a gain of 1,056 automobiles during the past year, Ulster county now has a car of some description for every 26 inhabitants as compared with a year ago, when there was one to every 38 persons. The tabulation in detail of the 1916 registration has just been completed by Secretary of State Hugo's office. It furnishes some interesting comparative figures. As cars have improved mechanically and highways bettered in country districts, the range of utility of the automobile has continually broadened, adding thousands of cars in the last year.

Ulster county has 3,285 cars of which 3,057 are pleasure, 188 commercial and the remainder dealers and exempts. There were 828 chauffers in the county last year, an increase of 212.

The county had 208 motorcycles last year. All told the county contributed the sum of $25,360.25 towards the $2,658,041 which the automobile bureau took in during 1916. Incidentally while the receipts increased approximately $700,000, the cost of operating the bureau dropped nearly 3 per cent.

By the provisions of the Brown bill the receipts of the automobile bureau are now divided equally between state and county, the entire amount going towards the betterment of highways with the exception of that which is paid over to Greater New York and which goes into the city's general fund.

Up to date this state has expended about $90,000,000 on its highways. The maintenance and repair is now costing about $4,500,000 a year. The state has approximately 7,000 miles of state and county highways. So complete is the system that it has been figured that an automobilist can travel for three consecutive months in this state without ever leaving improved highways.

This state now has a car to every 32 persons, California one to every 16 and Iowa one to every 8. In 1901 there were 954 cars registered in this state. Today there are over 325,000 and next year will probably see 400,000.

GRANITE.

Granite, March 5.—On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Purcell were delightfully surprised by a number of their friends, being thirty-three in all. The evening was spent with different kinds of games. There was music and singing during the evening. At a late hour refreshments were served, everyone enjoying themselves. Mr. and Mrs. Purcell proved charming entertainers, and all departed at a late hour, declaring they had had a most glorious time.

Attorney for Plaintiffs,
Office and Post Office Address,
Ulster County Savings Bank Bldg.,
Kingston, New York.

To

Della Chapin, Horace Chapin, Tillie France, Adelbert France, Lou Welock, Wilbur Van Demark, Mame Ruth Van Demark, Maud Van Demark Gaulrappe, Clarence Gaulrappe.

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of the Honorable G. D. B. Hasbrouck, a justice of the supreme court of the state of New York, dated the 23rd day of December, 1916, and filed on the 9th day of January, 1917, with a copy of the complaint, in the office of the clerk of the county of Ulster, in the city of Kingston, in said state of New York, the original complaint having been filed in said office on the 21st day of September, 1916. The object of this action is to make a partition according to the respective rights of the parties, and if it appear that partition cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners, then for a sale of the following described property:

All That Tract or Parcel of Land, situate in the town of Olive, county of Ulster and state of New York, at or near a place called Tongore, and is bounded as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at a chestnut tree standing against or near the south end of a ledge of rocks and runs from thence south eighty-eight and one-half degrees east twelve chains and sixty-six links to a white oak tree corner; then north seven and one-half degrees east eleven chains and thirty-five links; then north twenty-two degrees east twelve chains to a heap of stones; then sixty-four and a quarter degrees fourteen chains and twenty-five links to a rock oak tree standing against a ledge of rocks, marked; then south fifty-nine and one-half degrees west twenty-one chains and forty-two links to a heap of stones against the east side of a hill; then south eleven degrees west ten chains and twenty-five links to a black oak tree marked on a ledge of rocks; then along the same south thirteen degrees west five chains and eighty links to the place of beginning, containing fifty-eight acres of land, more or less.

Also another tract of land situate as aforesaid and adjoining the above described lot, at or near a place called Deer Park and is distinguished on map by lot No. 45 and is butted and bounded as follows, viz:

Beginning at oak tree marked 44, 45 being the northwesterly corner of lot No. 44, from thence running along the same south fifty degrees east thirty-three chains and twenty links to a stake and stones, 44, 45, then north twenty-three degrees east twenty chains to a black oak tree marked 45, then south fifty-four degrees west six chains to a white oak tree being the southeasterly corner formerly of Oreamnee North, then along the same north eighty-eight and one-half degrees west twelve chains and sixty links to a chestnut tree standing against or near a ledge of rocks; then north thirteen degrees east five chains and eighty links to a rock oak tree on a ledge of rocks; then north eighty-four degrees west sixteen chains to a black oak tree; then south thirty-six degrees west one chain and fifty links to the place of beginning, containing twenty-six acres of land, more or less.

Also another tract of land situate as aforesaid and on the northeast side of the first described lot, and is bounded as follows, viz:

Beginning where a straight line from the northeasterly side or as the line between the formerly of Orsamus North and James Winchell, was surveyed and established and where the same would intersect or does intersect Deer Park Road, and then down said road until it strikes a white oak sapling marked or about sixty rods then to the ledge of rocks a few rods southeasterly to the edge of the same; then as said ledge runs southerly to the end of the first stone-wall, then southeasterly along and through said wall to the bounds of James Robbins; then along his bounds southwesterly to the bounds of the first described lot, and along the same and other lands to the road aforesaid, and the place of beginning, containing eleven acres of land, more or less.

Excepting and reserving out of the same eleven acres heretofore conveyed to Jacob Boice, reference to his deed will more fully appear and by the said Jacob Boice, reconveyed to Henry Winchell, aforesaid, the same according to survey made by Cocouradt Brodhead, Esq., to be deducted of the two first described lots.

Also another lot of four acres reserved by the said Henry Winchell, bounded as follows; northwesterly by the Deer Park road, and east side of the Deer Park road, to be reserved out of the first two described lots.

Dated, January 18th, 1917.

Here's One of the Ways Malicious Lies were Circulated about CAMEL Cigarettes

In an effort to injure the wonderful sale of CAMEL cigarettes, many unprincipled schemes have been resorted to. The following is one of many ways such lies have been put into circulation.

An individual liar would approach a group of men, produce a newspaper, published in a distant city, and apparently become interested in reading. Suddenly he would exclaim, "What do you think of this?" He would then pretend to read an article about CAMEL cigarettes. In reality, the paper contained no such statement. The individual would at once walk away, carrying the paper with him. A newspaper from a distant city was always used in an effort to cover the tracks of the liar.

Would anyone voluntarily do this kind of unprincipled work? They must have been paid by someone to do it, and all of them should be exposed. An honest man will not knowingly work under the direction of a crooked superior, nor will an honest superior knowingly tolerate a crooked employee. However, some salesmen have told the trade that they had in their possession a newspaper containing a damaging article about CAMEL cigarettes. This was a malicious falsehood, as they had no such newspaper, and when asked to produce it, they were unable to do so.

CAMEL cigarettes are pure and delightful and the most popular cigarettes ever sold at any price. Cigarette smokers will not, for any length of time, permit malicious falsehoods to prejudice them against CAMELS.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 5, 1917.

When the Democratic reformers "purified" the House of Representatives of "Cannonism," the majority party in Congress assured the country that representative government had been restored in both branches and that the oldtime rule of the few had been banished forever. After four years of political purity, the country is naturally shocked from one end to the other at the spectacle of the Armed Neutrality Bill being talked to death by a dozen Senators, placed in command of the field through a parliamentary situation and not through any marked division of sentiment as to the propriety of the President's course. The Round Robin signed by seventy-six Senators shows their sentiments unmistakably, but to no effective end. The rules under which the upper house of the greatest legislative body in the world operates permit of the most outrageous dilatory tactics being put into play. Until unanimous consent is obtained, the United States Senate is powerless to proceed with any subject of business. Should one of its members become insane, he could continue to hold up proceedings just as long as physical endurance permitted him to talk. It is an unparalleled situation, one which the calling of the Sixty-fifth Congress in extraordinary session would not remedy unless public opinion made itself so plain as to enforce an amendment of the present archaic rules in force in the Senate. The situation is one of the most humiliating in which the republic has ever found itself. All of the responsibility for this condition does not rest upon the Senate but is shared by the Administration and the party in power.

Military preparation for any eventuality which may arise within the year is left at a standstill, this being another of the legacies of the mischievous filibuster which marked the expiration of the Sixty-Fourth Congress. The military, civil and general deficiency bills went by the board, the appropriations in these measures totalling more than a half billion dollars, all of which will be necessary to the conduct of the Federal government after July 1st. The only consolation lies in the fact that the conference measures providing for extensions to the navy and additions to our sea defenses were agreed upon. In this direction, the Administration has no obstacle in its path, and it may well be hoped that our Daniclses and others in charge of our naval policy will take advantage of the co-operation promised from private shipyards and industrial enterprises which have shown a disposition to give precedence to all Government work. The new law authorizes three superdreadnoughts, a large battle cruiser, three scout cruisers and a flotilla of sixty-eight submarines to be equipped with some recent improvements due to American inventive genius which have been kept secret. It appears that the wherewithal to make our naval defenses what they should be is at last within the grasp of the Government. Let us pray that the best use possible will be made of these immense appropriations, as in the navy lies the republic's chief hope as against any foreign invader.

Approximately a half million of tons of enemy and neutral shipping went to the bottom of the ocean during the first month of unrestricted submarine warfare. The Germans were confident of the ability of their undersea craft to sink at least a million tons a month, but it is plain that their first efforts did not result on the scale anticipated. It is true, however, that weather conditions over which the Kaiser, despite his closeness to Deity, has no control may prove more favorable to the operations of the submersibles as Spring advances. In other directions the effect of the renewed activity of the U-boats has been most serious. The slump in exports from New York harbor, attributed to this cause, was no less than forty per cent for February, when a hundred fewer ships sailed than in the preceding month. Exact data, obtainable within a few days from the Federal port officials, will show the scope of this slump. That England, too, is feeling the pinch of the curtailment of her shipping is made apparent by statements of members of her Government who do not conceal their anxiety over the outlook. The next two months will tell the story of the efficacy of the submarine, the last weapon pressed into service by Frightfulness facing defeat.

Idle curiosity on the part of individuals might be all right if it could be kept idle. When it becomes an active, working force, such curiosity is a menace to the comfort and safety of others. The rush to the telephone to find out the location of a fire is an instance in point. On Sunday night the service of the Kingston exchange was handicapped by the demands of subscribers eager to learn the nature of the fire for which two alarms were sent in. The staff of operators was unable to meet the rush of calls and other subscribers with legitimate business over the telephone were left in the lurch, no matter how acute their need for communication may have been. The telephone company should enforce the rule refusing information as to fires. The intelligent majority of subscribers will uphold that policy. A telephone company is not an information bureau, but merely a means of communication. It should stick to the last.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Old Roxleigh—"What are your resources?" Nervy Suitor—"Well, I have two other rich girls willing to marry me if I cannot have your daughter.—Boston Transcript.

"I have come to ask you for your daughter's hand," said the young man timidly to her father. "All right," said the old man joyfully, "but don't ever come around and ask me to take her back."—Judge.

"Bliggins affects to be a regular caveman." "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "But he doesn't carry out the idea. His clothes are sufficiently out of style to be annoying, without being prehistoric."—Washington Star.

"What's the matter, little girl?" "Two boys were fightin' and I got struck with a stone." "That's it; the innocent bystander always gets hurt." "But I don't know as I was an innocent bystander. I was what they was fightin' about."—Yonkers Statesman.

It Pervades all Space.

The teacher's last question was meant to be a scientific poser, according to the Chicago Herald. "What is that which pervades all space," she said, "which no wall or door or other substances can shut out?" No one had an answer ready but Freddy Sharpe. "The smell of onions, miss," he said promptly.

Perfectly Natural Act.

When the train stopped at an inland Virginia station the northern tourist sauntered out on the platform. Beneath a tall pine stood a lean animal with scraggy bristles. The tourist was interested. "What do you call that?" he queried of a lanky "cracker." "Razorback hawg." "Well, what is he doing rubbing against that tree?" "He's stropping himself, mister; jest stropping himself."—Harper's Magazine.

Youthful Politeness.

Paul's father had been trying to inculcate in his young son a sense of chivalry toward his little sister, with the injunction, "Ladies first always, Paul." The boy inwardly resented what seemed to him an injustice in this preference, but his opportunity to turn it to advantage came. Toward evening one day their mother sent the children on an errand to the cellar. The door opening upon the dark, abysmal regions below, had its usual effect upon small children. But the boy was reluctant to admit his fear. Turning to his sister, and holding open the door, he said, suavely: "Ladies first, Louise!"—Harper's Magazine.

Newly Made Aristocrats.

Nobody ever mentions it since they have come into money, but there were scoffing spirits in the village who had been well known to aver that at one time Wellerby, senior, had been a taxi driver, comments the London Tit-Bits. If that had been so, young Wellerby had managed very successfully to banish the memory of these days from his mind. There was a reception one day recently and the young heir to the millions was observed to be ostentatiously showing off the family seal. It represented St. George and the dragon. "One of my ancestors, you know," he observed pompously, "is said to have killed a dragon." "Good gracious!" said a scoffer near by. "How did he manage it? Did he—er—did he run over it?"

PROCLAMATION.

The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent: To the Sheriff of the county of Ulster, Greeting:—We command you that you summon to be and appear at a term of the supreme court of the State of New York, to be held by the justice of the supreme court, at the court house, in Kingston, in and for the county of Ulster, on the 1st Monday of March, 1917, the several persons who shall have been drawn to serve as grand and petit jurors at the said court. And we further command you to bring before the said court all prisoners then being in the jail of the said county of Ulster, together with all the processes and proceedings any way concerning them in your hands. And we further command you to make proclamation in the manner prescribed by law, notifying all persons bound to appear at the said court, by recognizance or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all justices of the peace, coroners and other officers who have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said court, or who have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations, to the said court on the opening thereof on the first day of its sitting, and have then and there this precept.

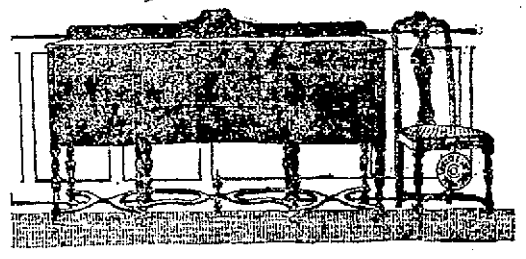

Witness, Hon. William P. Rudd, one of the Justices of our Supreme Court, at the Court House, in Kingston, in said County, the 10th day of February, 1917.

F. G. TRAVER,
District Attorney.

In pursuance to the above precept, I hereby make proclamation that a term of the supreme court of the state of New York and jail delivery, will be held at the court house in Kingston, in and for the county of Ulster, on the 1st Monday of March next, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day; and all persons who will prosecute against persons confined in the jail of said county are required to be then and there present, to proceed as may be just; and all persons bound to appear at the said court, by recognizance or otherwise, are required to appear thereat; and all justices of the peace, coroners or other officers who may have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said court, or who may have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, are required to return such recognizance, inquisition and examination, to the said court, at the opening thereof, and on the first day of the sitting thereof, and to be then and there present with their rolls and records, indictments and remembrances, to do those things which to their offices pertain.

Kingston, N. Y., February 10, 1917.

The Queen's Dining Room

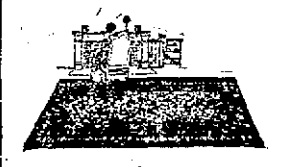

IT WAS Queen Mary who made china collecting popular in her day. This vogue naturally influenced furniture styles, and William and Mary designs are therefore particularly appropriate for the dining room.

With good judgment and skill, the elements of this romantic period have been adapted to present-day furniture needs.

This idea is one of the factors in the success of Berkey & Gay furniture. Classic forms as illustrated are so handled by their artists as to be charmingly conformable to the average home.

Dining suits may be had at prices which are reasonable, and quality considered, remarkable. You are invited to inspect them.

COUNTY COURT NOTICE.

The People of the State of New York to the Sheriff of the County of Ulster, Greeting:—You are hereby commanded to summon the several persons who shall have been drawn in your county, to serve as jurors, at a County Court, to be held in and for your county, at the Court House in the City of Kingston, in said county, on Monday, the 2nd day of April, 1917, to appear thereat, to bring before the said court all prisoners then being in the jail of your county, together with all processes and proceedings any way concerning them in your hands, and make proclamation in manner prescribed by law, notifying all persons bound to appear at the said court by recognizance or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all Justices of the Peace, Coroners, and other officers who have taken recognizance for the appearance of any person at such court, or who have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations to the court at the opening thereof on the first day of its sitting.

Witness, Hon. James Jenkins, Eighth County Judge of Ulster County, at the Court House in Kingston, this 10th day of February, 1917.

F. G. TRAVER,
District Attorney.

PROCLAMATION.—State of New York, Ulster County, ss.: The undersigned, Sheriff of said County, in conformity to a precept in this behalf directed and delivered, by this his proclamation, requires all persons bound to appear at the said County Court, to be held in and for the said County of Ulster, at Kingston, in said county, on Monday, the 2nd day of April, 1917, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, by recognizance or otherwise, to appear thereat. And he requires all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other officers who have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at said court, or who have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any person or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations to the said court at the opening thereof on the first day of its sitting. Signed at the sheriff's office in said county February 10, 1917.

Certain-teed

CERTAIN-TEED stands out conspicuously for quality, satisfaction, and economy. Any product bearing the name CERTAIN-TEED will measure up on all of these points. These are cold facts.

Certain-teed Roofing

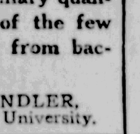

is the efficient type of roof. It is suitable for factories, office buildings, farm buildings, etc. For residences it is made in slate surfaced shingles.

CERTAIN-TEED costs less to buy, less to lay, and less per year of life. CERTAIN-TEED is light weight, clean, sanitary, and fire retardant. It will not dry out and is weather-tight.

It is made in three thicknesses—but only one quality—the best. It is guaranteed 5, 10 or 15 years according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply).

This guarantee is backed by the largest manufacture of prepared roofings and building papers in the world.

If you are building, or need a new roof, it will pay you to investigate CERTAIN-TEED before deciding upon any type of roof. For sale by dealers, everywhere.

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes

are good, dependable products made by expert paint men, and guaranteed to give satisfaction. They are sold at a price which would not be possible if we depended upon an exclusive paint organization to market our product.

The enormous resources of Certain-teed Products Corporation, and its extensive organization for distribution of CERTAIN-TEED products, make it possible to take advantage of every economy in buying, manufacturing and selling.

Even the professional painter can afford to use CERTAIN-TEED paints rather than to mix his own. Uncertainty is eliminated, waste and left-overs avoided, and quality is assured.

Whether you do your painting or employ a professional painter, your interests will be best served if you insist on CERTAIN-TEED paints and varnishes.

"BEER is a beverage prepared from cereals, water, hops and yeast. It contains 5 per cent. solid matter and only 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol. Beer is not intoxicating in ordinary quantities and is one of the few foods that is free from bacteria."

PROF. CHANDLER, of Columbia University.

What is Beer?

In starting to tell what beer really is, it would perhaps be better to tell what beer is not. Beer, on account of its small per cent. of alcohol, is no more a dangerous intoxicant than coffee, with its small per cent. of caffeine, is a dangerous drug.

There is no mystery about beer. All beers are made from an extract of cereals such as barley, malt, rice and corn. The starch of the cereals is converted during the brewing process into sugar. The liquid is boiled and hops are added to impart their agreeable bitter taste and flavor. After boiling, the liquid is cooled and fermented with yeast.

If there is anything harmful in any of these materials it is yet to be discovered. The same materials, with the exception of the hops, are used in the manufacture of bread and in many of the food products of today, and the hop plant has never been suspected of being anything but a desirable tonic herb.

The fermenting process gives beer its life and stimulating power. It is the same process that goes on in cider making, but whereas the farmer making cider leaves much to chance, the brewer absolutely controls the ultimate result of his brewing. For by boiling his extract before fermentation it is sterilized and the yeast used is a pure culture especially selected for beer brewing.

The small percentage of alcohol in beer results naturally from the process of fermentation—just as in cider—but cider usually has more alcohol than beer. Some cider makers increase the amount of alcohol by adding sugar to the must. They want alcohol to keep cider from spoiling. The brewer brews so as to have only 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol and he relies on sterilization, cleanliness and an expensive system of refrigeration to keep his beer from spoiling.

STRUCK OUT FOUR MEN

Unusual Stunt Was Performed In Game With Athletics—Willie Mitchell Claims He Fanned Seven Batsmen in Same Inning.

Guy Morton of the Indians was the only major-league pitcher of 1916 to strike out four men in one inning. The Alabama Arrow performed this unusual feat in the sixth frame of the game of June 11 against the Athletics, his victims being Lawton Witt, Charley Pick, Napoleon Lajoie and Jack McInnis. Witt reached first because his third strike also was a wild pitch.

To strike out four men in one session is not a novelty for a major-league pitcher, though the occurrence does not often crop up. Willie Mitchell, who started the season an Indian and finished it a Tiger, says he once fanned seven men in one chapter, his opponents meanwhile gathering four runs. He claims to have done this in 1909 for San Antonio against Houston. Willie says his catcher that day was Dolly Starke, one time Superba shortstop. Mitchell says Dolly broke the record for passed balls and that this was the reason he was able to fan seven.

The day Morton had the Athletics so thoroughly on his staff only 3 of the 13 Mackmen who batted against him escaped being whiffed. They were Reuben Oldring and Billy Meyer, who were in the controversy from start to finish, and Bill Stellbauer, who ripped off a single when he batted for Jack Nabors in the eighth. Strunk fanned three times, Lajoie and Witt each fanned twice and McInnis, Walsh, Myers, Nabors, Pick and Schang each fanned once.

Denton Young (Cy L) probably performed a feat unequaled by anyone when on April 9, 1900, pitching for the Guy Morton.

Cardinals against the Pirates, he scattered his nine strikeouts so that one came in every inning.

The feat of striking out three men in one inning was accomplished 27 times in the American league last season, men who did it more than once being Claude Williams, Urban Faber, Willie Mitchell and Walter Johnson. The first named had three such performances to his credit, the others each two.

SALARIES PAID TO PLAYERS

Bill Lange, Greatest Outfielder in His Day, Was Given Annual Stipend of $1,600.

When Bill Lange, who was somewhat of a ball player back in the old days, was playing with the Chicago Colts, he drew down a salary of $1,600. That was back in 1893. And today Ty Cobb, a great player in this age of baseball, draws down an annual stipend said to be $20,000.

When Cap Anson was the manager of the old Chicago club he received $2,700, and Hutchinson, the great hurler, got $2,500 for his work. Today there are any number of players who would snicker at such salaries.

WILLIE HOPPE.

HOPPE A GOLFING FAILURE.

Willie Hoppe, the billiard genius, has gone in for golf, but, as Hoppe admits, he isn't making any very great success of it. Hoppe has found golf very different from billiards, although he claims that he believes his ability at billiards finally will help him at golf as soon as he masters the rudiments of it. Hoppe says he has used plenty of "English" on his clubs, but beyond shocking some fair golfers once or twice, the results were scarcely of value.

TESTING SUBMARINES.

It Is an Easier Task Now Than It Was a Few Years Ago.

Vessels built to navigate under water require particular care in their construction, for when they are submerged they have to withstand the pressure of water from all sides without showing the slightest leak.

The newest submarines must be able to sink to a depth of 150 feet or more. At such a depth the pressure is tremendous, and if the joints are not perfect water squirts in as though through a hose pipe. Ten years ago testing a new submarine was a dangerous job. She might not be watertight. Her balance might not be perfect, or, again, the air system might not be equal to blowing out the water from her tanks.

Terrible accidents have occurred in testing new under water boats during actual submergence, but today all that is a thing of the past. A testing dock is used, which was invented by an Italian engineer, Major Laurenti. It is a huge cylinder, into which the submarine is floated. A caisson at the end is closed and hermetically sealed. The cylinder is built so as to stand tremendous pressure, and pressure is slowly applied until it equals something far greater than the submarine herself will ever be called on to endure.

The men inside are in communication with those outside by means of telephone, so that if anything goes wrong the trial can at once cease.—Pearson's Weekly.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The engagement of Miss Pauline Vogel of West Union street to Richard Adin of No. 57 Meadow street, has been announced.

The Loyal Friends' Aid Society will hold their regular meeting at the Hebrew school Tuesday evening, March 6. All members are urged to be present.

A meeting of the Children of the American Revolution will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Chapter House. Every member is urged to attend this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Every entertained about twenty-five of their friends on Saturday evening at their home, No. 357 Hasbrouck avenue. The evening was delightfully spent with games and music and at a late hour refreshments were served. Shortly before midnight the guests departed all stating that they had spent a most enjoyable evening.

Miss Maude Dudley of Elmendorf street entertained her Sunday school class in honor of her birthday on Saturday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in playing games, after which dainty refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Helen Turner, (teacher,) Marjorie Tillson, Alice McLaughlin, Edna Davis, Ruth Newkirk, Caroline Van Keuren Winifred Low, Sarah Davis, Helen Schoonmaker, Genevieve Whipple, Gladys Reynolds, Isabel Herdman, Ada Brown, Jennie Short, Kathryn Sparling, Maude Dudley, Hope Powell and Mrs. W. K. Powell. The guests left wishing Miss Dudley many more happy birthdays.

The Coterie.

The Coterie held its regular meeting with Mrs. Kingman at her home on Highland avenue, on Saturday afternoon. "Nome," was the chief subject under consideration for the day. Miss Huber had the principal paper on "Alaska, an Empire in the Making," and she told most interestingly of Alaska in the days when it was a Russian possession. During the later part of that period a certain Siberian count did much for the country, in a pioneer way, instituting the fur trading, the fisheries, etc., and making slight gold discoveries. Still the country was but little developed until it came into possession of the United States, at the time of purchase from Russia. The growth since that time was noted, as well as the resources of fur bearing animals, games, fish, gold, etc. The government under the various commissions is also, little by little becoming more completely unified and perfected. Mrs. Weyant had the second paper on the topic of "The Romance of Nome." Mrs. Weyant first told of the early days when it was a city of tents and then of the sudden boom when in two years it grew to a city of from 28,000 to 30,000 inhabitants. It is now a city of white frame houses with a population of about 7,000. While the working summers are regrettably short, it is a very busy place and in winter it is gay and full of social activities, since it is too cold to work. In addition to the information entertainingly presented in the paper, an exceedingly interesting letter was read by Mrs. Weyant from a former misionary who visited Nome, with her husband, in 1899, 1900, 1907 and 1911, and who noted the growth and progress in the city during those years, besides describing the life there. A third paper and a very informing and entertaining one, was the delayed paper on "The Conquest of Manila," given by Mrs. Flemming. After enjoying a social hour, the club adjourned to meet the next time with Mrs. Patchen.

Woman's Missionary Society.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will be held at the manse Tuesday afternoon, March 6, at 3 o'clock. Program—Devotional exercises; reports of the year; election of officers. The subject for foreign mission study, "The Living Christ in Latin America," will be presented in two papers, "The Birth of the Latin America Republics" by Miss Emma L. Turner, and "Temperamental Racial Differences," by Miss Mary H. Baker. All the ladies of the congregation are cordially invited.

Piano Recital.

The pupils of Miss Sophie Schmidtkonz gave a piano recital on Saturday afternoon at her home, 72 Hone street. The program was attractive and well rendered, each number showing the careful work of both pupil and teacher. Those of the pupils who played were the following: Kathryn Van Valkenburgh, Iva Finley, Helen Keappen, George Delanoy, Elizabeth Walker, Angelus Colburn, Silvia Relyea, Mary Coffin, Elizabeth Liebig, Paul Terpening, Ethel Tongue, Frederick Buchholtz, Daniel Bittner.

FORD TOOK A HIGH FENCE.

Marlborough Chauffer Avoided Hitting Horse.

Skidding off the road and bounding over a fence a Ford touring car from the Marlborough Garage was wrecked in the grape vineyard of Charles Young opposite the residence of Mrs. Harrison Covert in Marlborough about 10 o'clock Friday morning. The accident happened when Andrew Knapp, an employe of the garage, who was driving the car, veered from his course to avoid hiting a horse and wagon. As he turned, the car skidded on the slippery road, jumped both sidewalk and fence and crashed against posts in the Young grape arbor. The car turned completely around, resting on its left side with the radiator pointing toward the road. A post in the vineyard was broken off and jammed into the tonneau. The machine was badly damaged otherwise. Mr. Knapp, the driver, was uninjured beyond a severe shaking up.

Werbalowsky Buys a Hotel.

Simon Werbalowsky of Meadow street has purchased the Pine Plains Hotel at Pine Plains, Dutchess county, and will take possession April 1. The hotel contains 26 rooms and four stores are in the same building. The purchase also included an ice house filled with ice and a tenement house. Mr. Werbalowsky will cater to the summer boarding trade.

Sheriff in Lunch Room.

By virtue of an execution in favor of Elting Longyear, Sheriff Shultis this morning seized the furniture and furnishings in the lunch room of Richard Ryan at 576 Broadway and will sell them at auction at that place on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The amount of Mr. Longyear's judgment is $517.

Seeing the Other Side.

We know a man who has worked all his life for others; for his parents for awhile, then for a wife and children and some of her kin. The world rates him as moderately successful, but his own actual monetary compensation has just about amounted to board and clothes. And at home he hears some complaint because he doesn't do better. You hear much of the joy of service, but sometimes there are two sides.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

Looking for Virtues.

When you have a mind to divert your fancy, consider the good qualities of your acquaintances; as the enterprising vigor of this man, the modesty of another, the liberality of a third, and so on. For there is nothing so entertaining as a lively image of the virtues exhibited in the character of those we converse with, occurring as numerously as possible. Let this, therefore, be always at hand.—Marcus Aurelius Antoninus.

Gold in History.

Gold was known from the earliest historic times, and is mentioned in the eleventh verse of the second chapter of Genesis. At first it was chiefly used for ornaments. The trade of the goldsmith is mentioned in the fourth verse of the seventeenth chapter of Judges, in connection with the overlaying of idols with gold leaf.

Substitute for Tobacco.

Throughout the tropical Orient the natives employ a substitute for tobacco consisting of a slice of aricapalm nut, wrapped in betel leaf, flavored with a fine lime made of native sea shells, and colored with carmine. The habit is universal, especially with the women, and sellers of "betel nut" may be seen on many of the street corners in Saigon and other cities of Indo-China.

Quite Simple.

Jim Jones—"But how can I love my neighbor as myself, when his dog howls all night?" The Parson—"Why, very easy, brother Jones—very easy—just poison his dog!"—Puck.

Safeguarder.

Here is an advertisement of an extremely mannish vest lined with peau de cygne, but even if we can't find out in time what peau de cygne is we suppose we can guard against putting on our wife's by mistake by looking for the drawstring.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Greeks Made Use of Tin.

The Greeks in the Homeric times were familiar with the metal tin. Copper, tin and gold were used by Hephaestus in welding the famous shield of Achilles. Twenty layers of tin were in the cuirass of Agamemnon. No allusion to tin is found in the "Odyssey."

Life.

"Young man, there is nothing worse than high life on a low salary," said the wise man who is always giving advice. "Oh, I don't know," replied the young man who knew a thing or two himself, "it's no worse than low life on a high salary."—Florida Times-Union.

Influence on Character.

In the molding of character nothing matters so much as influence. It is the heart of all education, the inner secret of home and of school. More than any wit or genius is the value there of simple goodness, "moral thoughtfulness." Surround a life with its rays and dormant goodness will not fail to come to birth.

Growth of VanWagenen's Sets the Pace for Kingston's Development

FORTY-SIX years ago Van Wagenen's was little more than a vision, as nebulous as the morning mists which sometimes hang over the Hudson Valley, where its name has long ago been made known as the synonym for THE BEST in modern merchandising. Today VanWagenen's stands strong and dominant as the busiest department store in Kingtosn. Crowds from Ulster and adjacent counties are attracted hither by the knowledge that at VanWagenen's they can always find values that are worth while, coupled with efficient, obliging service.

In volume of trade, in superiority of Service, as well as in the Style and Quality of it's Merchandise, VanWagenen's stands out with distinction as the embodiment of its advertising slogan ---"KINGSTON'S FOREMOST STORE." It has formed an integral part of this city's growth, often blazing the trail for Kingston's commercial growth thruout adjoining Towns and Counties---and always without successful contradiction of its daring leadership.

The culmination of forty-six years of business success can be fittingly commemorated only by thanking sincerely those who have made our growth and expansion possible---whose loyal support has been the all-important factor in the upbuilding of this gigantic enterprise.

WE HEARTILY INVITE THE PUBLIC GENERALLY to share with us the celebration which will mark in a gala manner this epoch in our business career.

For this event we have prepared magnificently, determined that our 46th Birthday shall live long in the memory of our store friends as an occasion of festive gaiety, resplendent with pleasant relations between the store and its customers.

When our doors are opened Tuesday morning, the whole building, from basement to roof, will be aglow with offerings that will hold magnetic attractions for the economic guide of visitors—bargains that will proclaim our Birthday Jubilee as the Premier Value-Giving Event of the Year.

Very Respectfully, I. B. VANWAGENEN CO.

URGE RETURN OF THE REV. WEYANT

Trinity Methodist Church Body Takes Action—Affairs in Prosperous Condition and 92 New Names on Membership Roll.

District Superintendent R. E. Bell held the fourth quarterly conference at Trinity Methodist Church on Thursday evening last. Reports from various departments of the church were read. During the past year 92 new members have been added to the roll. The Ladies' Society have accomplished excellent work. The Sunday school and Epworth League show increase in attendance and interest. The church finances are in good condition. Pastor and people are working harmoniously and the prospects for the future are bright.

The conference by a unanimous vote reaffirmed the action take by the official board requesting the bishop and district superintendent to return the pastor, the Rev. P. C. Weyant, to the charge for another year.

S. M. Watts was elected delegate to the Layman's Association, S. E. Eighmey alternate.

The New York conference will convene at Washington Square Church, New York city, about April 4th. Bishop Luther B. Wilson presiding.

Standardized Lines

Less time consumed in the actual selling, means more time for personal contact with our friends.

Our shelves hold only standardized lines—products half sold by a name of merit gained by years of service. They cost more to us—in money—but they leave time for the often hurried motorist to request a fog-lifting explanation of that point. That's what we want. To illustrate, consider, MILLER Geared-to-the-Road TIRES.

Here is an established brand—a product deep-rooted in the regard of thousands of motorists. It is a real pleasure to sell Millers. No arguing—no visions of a scowling, returning face. A quick sale. And the saved time can be devoted to assisting you.

This is the fourth of a weekly series outlining our policies and plans for serving the motorists of Kingston. Watch for them all!

FLAG DEDICATION AT CHURCH.

Interesting Patriotic Ceremony at St. James's Church Sunday Evening.

An intensely interesting feature of the service Sunday night in the St. James Methodist Episcopal Church was the presentation and dedication of a handsome silk flag, the gift of a member of the church who in this manner expressed his love for America.

After the sermon, and while the organ played "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," the lovely flag was brought to the platform by Miss Alberta Silkworth, who presented it for dedication. The large congregation stood as this was done, and the the choir sang, "The Star-Spangled Banner." Then Dr. Baragwanath, the pastor, in a few well-chosen words, dedicated the flag for service in the church, and after he had asked them solemnly to renew their pledge of loyalty to America, he lifted it into place above the marble font at the left of the pulpit.

The new flag is worthy of the fine audience room in which it has found a permanent place.

St. James' Church Notes.

At the communion service yesterday morning eighteen persons were welcomed to the membership of the church.

The regular business meeting of the Epworth League will be held this evening.

The annual meeting, with election of officers, of the Ladies' Aid Society will take place in the church parlor Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

The regular meeting of the Queen Esther Circle will be held on Wednesday evening in the church parlors. There will be an election of officers. All who have mite boxes are requested to bring them at that time.

At the close of the prayer meeting on Thursday night the regular meeting of the official board will be held.

Prominent Poultrymen Fined.

A pair of Mallard ducks, bred by James M. Fuller at Warwick and entered at the poultry show there by John A. Seeger, son of Judge A. H. F. Seeger, caused the prosecution and fining of Fuller by Game Protector Kohl at Warwick. Fuller was fined $76 and Frank H. was fined $21 for permitting a wounded Mallard drake to associate with ordinary ducks on his farm.

Ladies' Auxiliary of Benedictine.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Sanitarium will be held at the residence of Mrs. James F. Dwyer, 287 Broadway, on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All members are requested to be present as a matter of importance will be discussed.

Poughkeepsie Cafes Obliging.

The Poughkeepsie police are looking for a well-dressed stranger who, representing himself as an internal revenue collector, had several checks cashed for $25. The checks were returned from a Maryland bank as worthless "scraps of paper." The man gave his name as John O'Brien.

MRS MARK J. SAMUELS

MEXICAN BANKER SUES "MARBLE BRIDE."

New York, March 5.—Mark J. Samuels, former associate in a Mexican banking enterprise of Gustavo Madero, is suing for an annulment of his marriage to his "marble bride," whom he met in the Mexican capital. Samuels alleges that from the day of his wedding his wife has not given any response to his demonstrations of affection and has repulsed him time and again. Samuels and his wife had their fortunes wiped out at the time of the slaying of Madero and the uprising of Huerta.

Abandoned Twin Babies.

Mrs. Agnes M. Ackerson, indicted for abandoning twin babies 11 days old in Middletown last June, was released on $200 bail by Judge Seeger at Newburgh Saturday. The babies have since found a home in Syracuse. The woman had 61 cents in her pockets when she left her babies.

Middletown Plans to Grow.

The Middletown Chamber of Commerce expects to inaugurate a city-wide home garden contest this spring.

Cause and Effect.

Newburgh's new Board of Censors sent a letter to George Cohen alleging the use of improper language in a vaudeville skit. The censors received an invitation to the next performance, the management disclaiming any suggestive dialogue.

Church Bowling Tuesday.

Tuesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. Church Bowling League the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will clash with Temple Emanuel at the association.

YOU can put "Comfort" on the job in your home for 24 hours every day by wiring for Electricity. Decide today to inaugurate this new regime—a regime that guarantees a happy, healthy, economical administration of all household affairs—one that means physical and mental comfort for you and your family all year long.

Your Home Is Easily Wired for Electricity --the Modern Light

Practically every new home to be erected in this city this Spring and Summer will be equipped for Electric Lights. This strong endorsement of the value attached to Electricity by landlords and builders should convince you of its even greater advantages for your old home.

The Electrically Wired Home is a gilt-edged investment. Electricity will make your home a better looking, cheerier and safer place in which to live. It will bring you larger rentals for your home or add substantially to its sales value if you wish to sell.

Electric Wiring as done by our skilled workmen will not litter up your home nor leave things looking like patchwork.

Telephone 1400 today. We will gladly prepare an estimate of the cost of wiring your home.

ADVERTISEMENT WRITING.

UNWISE advertising economy is an acquired habit with many merchants, like olives and moving pictures, but when the habit is continued—curtain! They seem to believe that each time their blackjack a dollar and lay it away on ice, withdrawing it from their advertising expenditures, they have done wisely. Really, such business men are shortchanging themselves. Well written advertisements are business getters. The other kind won't do at all. Let me write you advs. with "pep and punch." George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

PLOT TO ASSASSINATE PRESIDENT "WENT WRONG"

Hoboken Police Seize Explosives in Hotel Room and Arrest Man Who Confesses He Helped Cause Black Tom and Kingsland Explosions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 5.—Secret Service officers and a squad of police this afternoon broke into a room in the Commercial Hotel, Hoboken, N. J., and arrested a man who gave his name as Richard Kalb, 36.

A large supply of bombs, dynamite, picric acid and nitro-glycerine was confiscated. According to Chief of Police Hayes of Hoboken, Kalb not only confessed to having participated in the Black Tom and Kingsland explosions, but agreed to give the names of fourteen men, who, he said, were associated with him in a conspiracy to assassinate President Wilson in Washington today.

Kalb is said to have told the secret service men and police that "something went wrong" with the plot against the president, and that it had to be abandoned.

Sixteen completed bombs were found in Kalb's room and it was reported he was working on another when the officers broke in. Kalb is said to have admitted that the sixteen bombs were to have been sent to Washington to be used in an attempt on President Wilson's life. Further search of his room developed the fact that besides other explosives he had in his possession a considerable quantity of the deadly crystals known as "T. N. T."

Chief Hayes, Captain Thomas Garret and six Hoboken policemen accompanied the federal detectives to the hotel. Kalb submitted to arrest calmly but evidently was greatly surprised.

The police refused to give out any information concerning the search for Kalb, but admitted they had been hunting for him for a week and only located him this morning. Members of the New York "bomb squad" are said to have supplied some of the information that led to his arrest.

The Black Tom explosion, in which Kalb is said by the police to have admitted participation, occurred on the morning of July 30, 1916, rocked five states and did $25,000,000 damge. Munitions on barges and piers on Black Tom Island harbor let go with terrific force, shaking all the lower part of New York city and causing the loss of several lives. The possibility that Teutonic spies might have caused the explosion was investigated and several men were taken into custody as suspects. The origin of the explosion was never really determined.

The Kingsland, N. J., plant of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, Ltd., was wrecked by a $10,000,000 explosion on the night of January 11, 1917. The company was manufacturing munitions for the Russian government. Officials said at the time they believed the fire that caused the explosion was of incendiary origin.

Impeachment Cases.

Although one president of the United States (Johnson), one cabinet officer (Belknap), six United States judges and eight governors of states have been impeached since the foundation of the republic, only one senator, William Blount of Tennessee, has been arraigned before the bar of the house of congress to which he was elected. Of the eight governors impeached one was acquitted, in three cases the charges were dropped, one was permitted to resign, and three were removed. Three of the impeached judges were removed, and three were acquitted. Both President Johnson and Secretary Belknap were acquitted. Politically the last named impeachment cases were the most important the United States has experienced.—Argonaut.

Funeral will take place from his late residence, 12 Fairview avenue, this city, Wednesday morning, March 7, at 11 o'clock. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment at Woodstock.

CARUSO REMAINS IN COUNTY JAIL

Judge Jenkins today handed down a decision in the habeas corpus proceedings taken by Agostine Caruso of Glasco against Sheriff Shultis after his commitment to jail to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, dismissing the writ and remanding Caruso to jail.

The habeas corpus proceeding was instituted by Caruso's counsel, Frederick E. W. Darrow, who appeared on the argument with Frank W. Brooks, of counsel. The legal status of the case was defended by District Attorney Traver. City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., appeared for the complaining witness against Caruso.

Pistol and Submarine.

Some boys fishing through the ice in the creek today caught a weird looking lizard which they at first thought to be an offspring from the mysterious "sea monster" seen in local waters last summer. The creature proved to be a mud puppy of the American genus of salamanders, sometimes called a hellbender. It was given a refuge in Ben Johnston's window front and placed in a glass jar of water, labelled submarine. An old English pistol with a brass barrel, the property of Martin Le Fevre, formerly of New Paltz, features the other window.

THE WAY TO SUCCEED.

Charles M. Schwab's Advice to Young Men Starting to Work.

In his book "Succeeding With What You Have" Charles M. Schwab says:

"When I took charge of the Carnegie works at Homestead there was a young chap employed there as water boy. A little later he became a clerk. I had a habit of going over the works at unusual hours, to see how everything was moving. I noticed that no matter what time I came around I would find the former water boy hard at work. I never learned when he slept.

"Now, there seemed to be nothing remarkable about this fellow except his industry. The only way in which he attracted attention was by working longer hours and getting better results than any one else. It was not long before we needed an assistant superintendent. The ex-water boy got the job. When we established our great armor plate department there was not the slightest difference of opinion among the partners as to who should be manager. It was the youth with the penchant for overtime service.

"Today that ex-water boy, Alva C. Dinkey, is head of a great steel company and very wealthy. His rise was predicated on his willingness to work as long as there was any work to be done.

"If a young man entering industry were to ask me for advice I would say: Don't be afraid of imperiling your health by giving a few extra hours to the company that pays you your salary. Don't be reluctant about putting on overalls. Bare hands grip success better than kid gloves. Be thorough in all things, no matter how small or distasteful. The man who counts his hours and kicks about his salary is a self elected failure.

"It may be in seemingly unimportant things that a man expresses his passion for perfection, yet they will count heavily in the long run. When you go into your customary barber shop you will wait for the man who gives you a little better shave, a little trimmer hair cut. Business leaders are looking for the same things in their offices that you look for in the barber shop.

"The real test of business greatness is in giving opportunity to others. Many business men fail in this because they are thinking only of personal glory."

Our Land Extension.

Great Britain is no longer the only nation that can say the sun never sets on its territory. Since the United States acquired the Danish West Indies it can make the same boast.

Hitherto the little island of Culebra, which is virtually a part of Porto Rico, has been our most easterly point of land and the island of Balabac, in the Philippines, our most westerly point. The distance between them is just a little less than 180 degrees, or half the circumference of the earth. St. Croix, in the Danish West Indies, is thirty-eight miles farther east than Culebra, enough to bridge the gap. Just as the sun is rising on St. Croix it is setting on Balabac.—Youth's Companion.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Vigorous buying in the late forenoon caused brisk advances, some issues selling at new high records for the year. Cuba Cane advanced from 40⅞ to 43⅜, American Beet Sugar from 89⅝ to 92⅝ and American Sugar Refining rose 2½ to 112½. General Motor advanced 3 points to 115. Steel Common, after selling at 107⅝ rose to above 109. Utah Copper advanced to 113¾, and Anaconda to 84. Money loaning at 2¼ per cent.

Nearly all the interest during the afternoon was attached to the vigorous buying of the steel issues, the Bethlehem Steel A stock advancing from 128½ to 140, while the B stock sold up to 115¾. The rights were also in urgent demand and rose to 15½. Steel Common was active and strong and sold around 110 and there were vigorous advances in many of the industrials, Great Northern Ore advancing 2½ to 35¼.

GLASCO.

Glasco, March 5.—"Uncle Mart" Lasher's contract for carrying the mail between Glasco and Saugerties will expire on June 30. After that date Dominick Mawfro will take the job, his bid having been accepted by the post office department. Mawfro has been conveying the "mill girls" to and from Saugerties since Thomas Nolan sold out. The people all along the route will certainly miss "Uncle Mart," as he was always very accommodating and careful for the comfort and safety of passengers, especially ladies and children. When he wasn't blowing his whistle he was singing or entertaining his fares with jokes. He never was known to forget an errand but once, and then he was so worried about it that he turned right about and drove back to Saugerties for it rather than disappoint the parties. At the present time "Uncle Mart" is confined to his home by an attack of grip.

Roma and Louis Mermie, brothers, are seriously ill of grip, the former on the verge of pneumonia. Dr. Gifford and Miss Edna Low, nurse, are attending them. Dr. Chandler was called in consultation on Saturday morning.

John T. Washburn is moving into his new residence on Barclay Heights. Mr. and Mrs. Washburn have given their personal attention to all the details that make for convenience, comfort and style in the building and have certainly worked out their plans to a degree of perfection seldom equalled in the construction of an ideal home.

The evangelistic meetings at the M. E. Church will continue this week. They are well attended and are meeting with success.

Treat For Music Lovers.

In the coming of Francis Macmillen, the great American violinist, to this city on Wednesday evening of next week, music lovers are assured of one of the rarest of treats. Since at the age of 16, he was declared the Laureate of the Brussels Royal Conservatory and the winner of the $5,000 Van Hal cash prize. Macmillen has swept all before him both in Europe and America. He will play at the high school auditorium bringing to a close the 1916-17 season of Dodge concerts.

No Driver on Uphill Work.

As we lope off to press, a horse and sleigh belonging to Edward T. McGill are running in an opposite direction, up Broadway. Later bulletins announce the catching of the animal half way up the hill. No casualties are reported.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The Junior Ladies' Aid Society of St. James M. E. Church will hold a sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. William Gronemeyer, No. 69 Brewster street, on Wednesday afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Baraca and Philathea Classes of the Wurts Street Baptist Sunday school will be held this evening in the chapel. A musical program has been arranged and refreshments will be served.

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association of School No. 5, will be held Tuesday, March 6, at 3:30 p. m. Business of importance, including the forming of a sewing school, will be transacted. Every member is urged to be present.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Reformed Church will be held on Tuesday evening at the home of the Misses Elsie and Gertrude Grant, 109 St. James street. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold their annual election of officers in the lecture room of the Church of the Comforter, March 7, at half past seven o'clock, in the evening. Preceding the election will be a business meeting to close all business of the past year. Following the election refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed. Each member is privileged to bring with them a guest.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Mrs. Elias Reynolds died at her home in Pleasantville, Dutchess county, Thursday, aged 101 years. She had lived for 80 years at Croton Lake.

Catherine Gillette, wife of the late Charles H. King, died in Flatbush, Brooklyn, on Sunday afternoon. The remains will be brought to Kingston for interment and notice of funeral will be given later.

The funeral of Miss Eva Winans, who died on Tuesday at her home, Hill street, Saugerties, was held at her late residence, Sunday afternoon, the Rev. R. P. Ingersoll officiating. The remains were placed in the mortuary chapel vault, and later will be taken to Hyde Park, N. Y., for interment.

The funeral of Miss Mari Post, who died Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Brown, of East Kingston, was held at the residence of Miss Jennie Gillepsy, Second street, Saugerties, on Sunday afternoon, the Rev. Frank Scoville, a former pastor of the Congregational Church, officiating. Interment was in Mountain View Cemetery.

Smith D. Niver, for seven years city editor of the Catskill Mail, died Friday in Golden, Col., Friday where he had gone to take a position as editor and manager of The Globe, published there. His end was unexpected and was almost coincidental with his arrival in Golden. The change from the lower elevation of San Antonio, Texas, where he had spent the winter caused a collapse.

Elizabeth Gregory, wife of the late Matthew Moyle, died on Sunday at her home in this city, aged 87 years. Mrs. Moyle for the past 40 years had been a member of the Trinity M. E. Church and had been an earnest church worker and member. The funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Brenn, No. 385 Broadway. The Rev. Weyant of Trinity M. E. Church and Rev. Stowe of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, will have charge of the services. Mrs Moyle is survived by eight children: Caroline, wife of Henry Dunbar; Elizabeth, wife of John H. Decker; Emma, wife of John B. Brenn; Effie, wife of Charles Fuller; Keturah, wife of George O. Mackey, all of this city; and Samuel J. Moyle of Buenos Ayres, South America; Matthew of Brooklyn and William of Kingston. Interment will be in Montrepose Cemetery.

The funeral services of the late John J. Dempsey of New York city were held on Saturday morning last at 11 o'clock at St. Charles Boromeo Church. The church was filled with relatives, friends and business associates of Mr. Dempsey. A large delegation of Castillian Council, K. of C., and another of the Holy Name Society attended the services in a body. The floral tokens, which were profuse and beautiful, and many of which were from Kingston, formed a silent tribute to the high esteem in which Mr. Dempsey was held. A solemn requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Riley, assistant pastor of the church, with the Rev. Father Kehoe, a cousin of deceased, of Philadelphia, as deacon and the Rev. Father Flynn of Warwick, N. Y., as sub deacon. The Right Rev. Monsignor Wall, an intimate friend of the family, was seated in the sanctuary during the service. As the body was borne from the church Mrs. J. W. Leary of Kingston sang "Face to Face." Accompanied by the Rev. Mgr. Wall and the Rev. Fathers Flynn, Kehoe and Riley, the body was laid to rest in the family plot at St. Raymond's, West Chester.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Markle, with their relatives of Hoboken, N. J., who are visiting them, visited friends in Kingston on Wednesday last.

Agricultural Problem Solved.

A close study of soils and crops shows that the relation is purely natural, in that crops showing a preference for a certain soil is due entirely to the demands of these crops for a definite amount of water and warmth. Plant food is a secondary consideration, and as this can easily be supplied by man the problem is solved.

NECK FIXINGS.

Gay Colors and Collarless Effects the Thing.

Just when it seemed that the white collar had become an obsolete feature of dresses it shows evidence of reviving, and it may be said that the broad collar of satin or of lingerie fabrics will be one of the principal attractions of incoming fashions.

As things are at the present moment many women look as if they had dressed in a hurry and omitted the important item of neckwear. The French designer who brought out the collarless frock had in mind the eternally young and piquant type of girl. As this type is limited, despite all efforts to the contrary, it follows that only the favored few look well dressed in the gown sans collar.

There is something rather commendable in the dress that exploits a neck finish of a gay color. It is in keeping with the trend of fashion that emphasizes everything connected with sport wear, whether the garment in question has anything to do with athletic life or otherwise.

Some of the color combinations are decidedly startling. One finds green associated with purple, and yellow with old rose, and turquoise with pink. Usually the collar is of satin, and this in itself supplies a decorative note when the dress is of wool jersey, serge or similar fabric.

Frequently it happens that the color of the collar is repeated in the facing of the sash. A recent model shows a collar whose front lines are extended to give a four-in-hand effect. The front of the bodice shows two slashes, and through these the ends of the cravat are passed.

AFTERNOON FINERY.

good model for school gowns It is not so simple as it looks, for hours were consumed doing the small scallops that finish all edges.

The Slender Throat.

Too much flesh on the neck is a fatal bar to beauty It is far simpler to put flesh on a woman's throat than to take it off for if the tissues are fed with a good skin food, such as cocoa butter, the neck will soon begin to round out. On the other hand, only exercise of the most vigorous sort will reduce the size of the throat. For a tendency to a double chin and to tighten the muscles which have become loosened, try this simple exercise: Throw the head back as far as it will go, drawing the muscles tight Now turn the head slowly as far to the right as you can and then to the left. Repeat ten times, increasing as you become accustomed to the strain. Massaging the neck with a piece of ice is excellent for keeping the flesh firm.

Colored Veils Worn.

Colored veils are being worn to a considerable extent. Beige, gray and navy are the most popular colors. The embroidered veil continues to dominate, yet one sees a combination of colors; for example, beige colored embroidery on a navy veil is smart again gray on navy. Black and white combinations are making their appearance in increasing number We note white chenille embroidery on a fine black hexagon mesh. There seems to be a vogue in metallic embroidered veils.

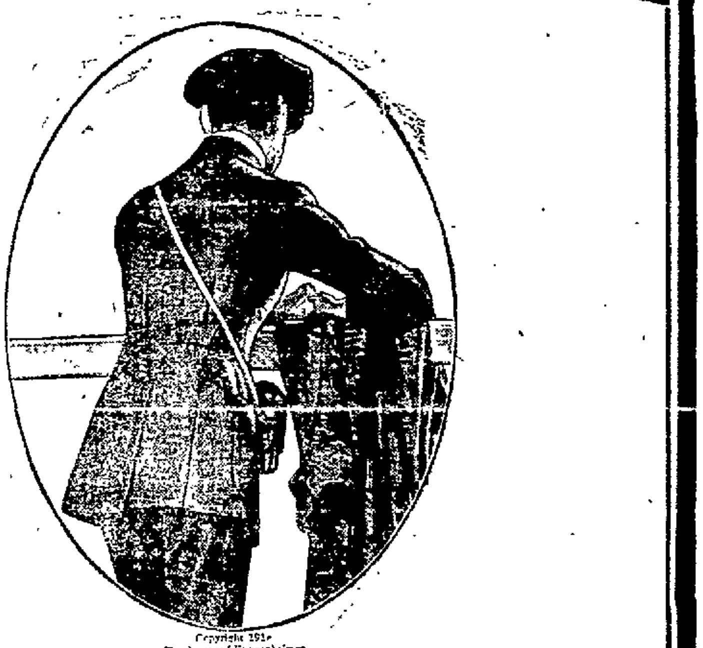

Cheesecloth Bags.

Refrigerator bags are a comfort. They are plain and made of white cheesecloth, with white drawstrings at the top. The name of the contents of each bag is written in a running stitch across the side in a deep shade of blue. The celery bag is made long and slender, lettuce bag wide and short and parsley small and square

A set of these bags is a welcome gift to a friend just starting housekeeping.

HOTEL CURRY OPENED TODAY.

Many Improvements Made in Former Hotel Ronan.

The Hotel Curry, formerly the Hotel Ronan, at No. 286 Wall street, which has been closed for several months, re-opened today under the management of Martin Curry, who has purchased the property.

The hotel has been thoroughly renovated and many improvements have been made. The restaurant will be conducted along modern lines and the cuisine will be first class in every respect.

Mr. Curry formerly conducted a well known hostelry at Tuxedo, until it was destroyed by fire. He had charge of several departments of the exclusive Tuxedo Club and is a thoroughgoing hotel man of extensive experience. The now famous Jack Rose cocktail was originated by Mr. Curry and named by him in honor of a family friend

Widow Can't Get Pension.

Because her late husband had served only 18 years on the Poughkeepsie police force, Mrs. Otto Albertson of that city is ineligible to receive any benefit from the police pension fund. The law requires twenty years of service and now it is planned to amend it to make the period 15 years.

JACK FROST is a real enemy of the Starting and Lighting Battery. Prepare your battery to resist his attacks by making sure that it is in good condition for its winter's work.

Remember, that your car is much harder to start in winter than in summer, and also that the long winter nights call for greater use of lights.

Drive around to our "Exide" Service Station and let us inspect your battery. We make no charge for this service. Expert attention at this time will assure you good service this winter and save you money.

If you do not run your car this winter—send your battery to us and let us care for it during the cold weather. We will give it proper care and return it to you in the spring in good condition. Our small charge for this service may save you the cost of a new battery in the spring.

KINGSTON GIRLS HAD A WALK-OVER

Basketball Victory Over Middletown Talent by Score of 26 to 5—Red Hook Scouts Cancelled Game With Midgets.

A sad disappointment was the basketball fracas between the Middletown and Kingston girls Saturday afternoon in the local gym which turned out to be a walk-over for the locals though heralded as a close fight on account of the visitors' previous standing. The score was 26-5.

The losers lacked teamwork and were very poor at shooting, though the good work of Kingston's guards was largely responsible. In advancing the ball the home girls were greatly superior. Luckily, boys' rules were used which tended to quicken the action somewhat as all the players were qualified to shoot.

The locals, after finishing the first half by a score of 20-3 ,slowed up in the last considerably, scoring only six points. Mr. Schmitz of Middletown and Mr. Schumaker of this city refereed. Six fouls were called on each team. The line-up was as follows:

Kingston.

Safford, rf.	7	0	14
Hurley, lf.	2	0	4
Joslovitz, c.	0	0	0
Wood, lg.	0	0	0
Schmid, rg.	4	0	8

The game between the Midgets and Red Hook Boy Scouts scheduled for Saturday afternoon at the latter place was cancelled by the Scouts.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, March 5.—Port Ewen Lodge, No. 656, I. O. O. F., will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in their rooms in Pythian Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sleight and daughter, Bessie, who have been spending a few weeks with Mrs. Sleight's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Dingman, in Stockport, have returned to their home on Salem street.

C. W. Ellison of Ulster Park, extra operator on the West Shore Railroad, relieved H. W. Bartsch at the Port Ewen, West Shore station, on Friday.

Mrs. A. Wurts Taylor of Albany spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hotaling, on Broadway.

The New York Telephone Company have finished unloading and distributing through Port Ewen and vicinity, two car loads of conduits to be used in their cable system between New York and Albany.

Mrs. Owen Barnard of Kingston called on Mrs. Peter Atkins on Broadway Saturday.

The Adult Bible Class, the Truth Seekers, will hold their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the Methodist parsonage. All members of the class are urged to be present and spend a pleasant and profitable evening.

Special union services in Port Ewen closed on Sunday with preaching in the Methodist Church at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Homer L. Scheffer and in the evening in the Reformed Church by the Rev. Eugene Bookhout. Through the efforts of these pastors the people of Port Ewen have had an opportunity to hear many excellent sermons. These special union services have been held during the past two weeks in the Reformed Church and have been in charge of the Rev. Eugene Bookhout of the Methodist Church and the Rev. Homer L. Scheffer of the Reformed Church. Among the many able clergymen who have addressed these meetings were: Dr. E. E. Bell, district superintendent, Kingston; Dr. J. L. Leeper, Reformed Church, Kingston; Dr. F. W. Moot, Ponkchockie; Rev. G. M. Cranston, Clinton Ave. M. E. Church; Kingston; Rev. Melvin Verne Oggel, Reformed Church, New Paltz; Rev. C. Van Oostenbrugge, Reformed Church Ulster Park. The choir of the Reformed Church with accessions from the Methodist choir rendered valuable assistance to the able, eloquent, and effective preaching of the local and visiting clergymen. The organist, Mrs. John U. Gillette, in the preludes, offertories, and postludes showed an unique and splendid technique which was helpful to the services.

Inter Dog in Cemetery.

Goshen, March 5.—Morris E. Bilyou has returned to his home in New York, his heart saddened by the death of his dog Mack, who for twelve years had been the companion and pet of Mr. Bilyou and his wife. After a veterinary had diagnosed the animal's disease as incurable and put it to death, Mr. Bilyou had a suitable coffin made, and on Wednesday Mack's remains were taken to Webb cemetery and buried in the family plot.

OF INTEREST TO LOCAL BOWLERS

Y. M. C. A. Planning to Hold City Championship Bowling Contest With Two Men on a Team Week of April 9.

An event of interest to local bowlers is that being arranged by Physical Director Godfrey of the Y. M. C. A. when a city championship bowling match will be held at the Y. M. C. A. the week of April 9. As present planned each team contesting will have to pay an entry fee of $2. Each team will consist of two men, and all games will be rolled on association alleys. It is hoped to secure twelve teams and if that is done the members of the winning team will be presented each with a bowling ball. Full details may be obtained from Mr. Godfrey of the association.

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, March 5.—Preaching service will be held on Sunday afternoon at the usual hour by Rev. Mr. Heroy.

Harry Brown, Ralph Hoornbeck and Lawrence Davis attended the house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Depew at Upper Cherrytown last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Alex Brown and daughter Miss Kathryn were week end guests of her sister, Mrs. J. H. Baker at Mettacahonts and Mrs. Simon Hornbeck at Whitfield.

Frank Lounsberry of Mombaccus was in town Thursday.

Paul Carley was a guest for supper Monday evening at the home of Arlington Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hendrickson who have been enjoying a few days' with relatives at Willoemoc have returned home.

Peter Lattermer left on Thursday for a short vacation with friends at Claryville. Peter is greatly missed by all the neighbors.

Mrs. Uriah Quick and daughter, Mrs. Floyd Depew, who have been to Walden to visit Mrs. Quick's son, Myron Quick, who has recently underwent an operation for some trouble in his head, have returned to their home. We are all glad to hear Mr. Quick is improving as well as can be expected.

Friends in this place are glad to hear that Aunt Kate Zeaman, who had the misfortune to dislocate her shoulder some time ago at her home at Mettacahonts, is improving under the treatment of her son, Dr. Osterhoudt at Newburgh. We all hope for her recovery.

Miss Nickerson, the physical training teacher visited this school on Wednesday and said the school was doing fine in drilling.

Rev. Mr. Heroy of Accord and Miss Nickerson were guests for dinner at the home of Mrs. Annie Hornbeck Wednesday.

A number from Leibhardt and Tobasco attended the social and entertainment at Mettacahonts Friday evening. All reported a fine time.

We hear Mrs. Arthur Davis of Whitfield is ill with the grip. We all hope for her speedy recovery.

Those who called at the home of Mrs. Eliza C. DeWitt and son Henry on Wednesday afternoon and evening were Jerome Dann of Whitfield, Rev. Mr. Heroy of Accord, Mrs. Amelia Markle and Mrs. H. D. DeWitt, Mrs. Annie Hornbeck and Miss Hilda Hornbeck.

The Leibhardt people are planning on attending the oyster supper and free entertainment at Whitfield Friday evening, March 9. A good time is exected.

Mrs. Elijah Krom spent Thursday with Mrs. Grover Smith.

MOMBACCUS HEIGHTS.

Mombaccus Heights, March 5.—It was gratifying to note a much greater attendance at the Reformed Chapel on Sunday afternoon when an instructive sermon was preached by the Rev. H. D. Frost of Accord. Mr. Frost is planning a series of meetings to be held later on when the roads are in better condition.

Frank Reilly of Newark spent a few days recently with friends here. Mr. Reilly expects to have some repairing done to the buildings on his farm in this place.

The surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William DePuy of this place was an enjoyable affair for about forty guests on Tuesday evening of last week. Music, singing and games were the amusements and a bountiful supper was served during the evening. A similar affair was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lounsbery the previous Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Harry Smith and two children have returned home after spending a few days with her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Thomas.

Calvin Sherman and Ralph McDonald visited the former's home at Granite on Sunday.

The Reformed Church sheds that have been in a sadly neglected condition for some time, will be repaired, it is planned, with the money in the hands of the committee and the volunteered assistance of a number of citizens. The church roof also needs some attention.

Frank Green and son, Frank, Jr., visited Kingston this week.

Melbourne Green is keeping himself and a number of his neighbors warm in every sense of the word, while sawing up great banks of firewood with his gasoline outfit.

Abram Smith and family spent Sunday evening at Joel Lennon's.

Fritz, the fox hound belonging to Thomas Morehouse, caught a fox one day last week. The animal had been wounded, hence the capture.

Smith Brothers had an accident on their way to the sawmill on Monday which resulted in a broken bob sleigh and a spilled load of logs, nothing more serious, which was lucky.

Sewers for Pine Hill.

Eugene Clapp, of the New York City Water Board, was in Pine Hill several times last week locating the boundaries of the village. Mr. Clapp facetiously remarked that sewers would be in operation for the boarding season.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Sarah E. Keator of this city has been filed in the surrogate's court and a citation for its probate issued returnable April. To Frank L. Miller, who has made his home in the Keator family for a number of years, the testatrix bequeaths an opal ring with diamond setting, a pearl ring with two diamonds, and a ring with three small diamonds. In the event of Mr. Miller moving away and the executor being unable to deliver the rings within six months, they were directed to be given to Etta Dunwoody, daughter of William H. Snyder, and to Sarah Houghtaling, daughter of Martin Snyder. The sum of $200 is bequeathed to the trustees of the Rosendale Cemetery Association in trust for the perpetual care of her burial lot, and the balance of the estate is given to her husband, Clement Keator, who is appointed executor. The will was executed February 3, 1910, and witnessed by Virgil B. Van Wagonen and Edwin L. Angle. The value of the real estate is $3,000 and the personal property amounts to $2,000. Virgil B. Van Wagonen appeared for the executor.

MILTON.

Milton, March 5.—Parents and interested friends of pupils of No. 1 District should by all means respond to the request sent out by the teachers to come and visit the school on Tuesday, March 6, after 1 o'clock p. m. There will be no special program of entertainment. The different rooms may be visited while the school is at work, seeing the regular work of the school for a short time. Later in the afternoon the school will assemble, giving an opportunity to talk over some of the things of special interest or importance to all. This friendly co-operation on the part of community will be much appreciated by the teachers. Principal Dwight M. Warren and the Misses McManus and Patten.

Mrs. Rheil, Mr. and Mrs. William Filler, Miss Scott and Mr. Strickland of Poughkeepsie spent Sunday in Milton.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawton on February 20.

Miss Amanda Watson does not improve in health. Mrs. Dennis Connor is nursing her.

A party was given by H. Donaldson, Jr., to a few young friends on Saturday evening, February 24. Music, games and dancing were enjoyed and delicious refeshments were served. Those present report having spent a very pleasant evening.

On Thursday evening last, after the teachers' training class M. A. Northrip gave a few friends a sleigh ride to Highland. The bugle carried by Fred Boss made the night air hum.

Mrs. L. W. Cosman of Newburgh visited her sister, Mrs. George Hallock, on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cosman of Newburgh visited at Justice Northrip's on Sunday.

Miss Eugenia Patten began her duties at District No. 1 on Wednesday in place of her sister, Miss Marion Patten, who began her work as physical instructor on Thursday at the Marlborough school.

C. S. Northrip and son, Malcolm, were in Kingston on Monday last. On Wednesday Malcolm returned to Syracuse University.

Supervisor and Mrs. Woolsey arrived home on Wednesday evening from the south.

Robert R. Rounds has been confined to his home with illness for several days. He missed being in attendance at the M. E. Church on Sunday morning for the first time during the Rev. J. S. Lull's pastorate.

The Epworth League and Group One of the Ladies' Aid Society are planning an entertainment to be given in the M. E. Church on the eveing of March 16.

Our people were grieved to hear of the death of James Butler in Fourkkeensie recently. He was one of Milton's favorite boys some years ago.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of Mrs. C. P. Kent on Wednesday, March 7, at 3 p. m.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Needle Craft of the Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of Mrs. O. P. Kent on Tuesday, March 6, at 2:30 p. m.

There were two runaways here on Friday afternoon last. A horse and wagon owned by Hotel Keeper Stickles, driven by Thomas McGlibboney, while coming down Kent's hill the horse's heels struck the wagon and the horse ran on to the village, where it was stopped. No one was injured. At the same time an auto, owned by Capt. Davis, ran into a hedge. Mr. Davis had just stepped out of the car, putting brakes on, but for some reason they failed to work. The car was slightly damaged.

Women of Milton and vicinity are urged to meet in Marlborough on Monday at 4 p. m. at the school building. This is for the purpose of organizing under the Red Cross Auxiliary of Kingston. One dollar is asked of each member, and our country needs one million such members at the earliest possible time. A few Marlborough women are urging this meeting.

Fine Entertainment Tuesday.

Tuesday evening a fine entertainment consisting of music, readings, etc., will be given in Masonic Hall on the Strand under the auspices of Mystic Court, U. D., Order of Amaranth. A nominal admission will be charged. Tickets may be secured of the member of the order or at the door Tuesday evening.

Rumor of a Bakery.

R. W. Hill has purchased the Judson property, in this village, located between the M. E. parsonage and A. D. Hill's store. It is rumored a bakery will be established there.—Pine Hill Sentinel.

American Mineral Oil

FRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Use of Mineral Oil.

Dr. Le Tanneur contributes to the Paris Medical seme practical points in the use of mineral oil in constipation. The oil, he says, is in no way digested or even modified by the juices of the stomach and intestines. It acts as a lubricant and nothing else, though it tends to heal abrasions of the intestinal wall caused by rough particles of food.

The New York Medical Journal says mineral oil should be taken either before breakfast or after dinner, two tablespoonfuls being a dose. Its use should be continued every day for at least a fortnight, when the bowels will continue to work naturally without it, for the mineral oil is in no sense a cathartic, but it will cure constipation.—Kingston Daily Freeman, February 17, 1917.

ULSTER COUNTY'S AUTOMOBILE CENSUS

Now Has An Automobile to Every 26 Inhabitants—Last Year Had One to Every 38—Gain of 1,056 in a Year.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, March 5.—With a gain of 1,056 automobiles during the past year, Ulster county now has a car of some description for every 26 inhabitants as compared with a year ago, when there was one to every 38 persons. The tabulation in detail of the 1916 registration has just been completed by Secretary of State Hugo's office. It furnishes some interesting comparative figures. As cars have improved mechanically and highways bettered in country districts, the range of utility of the automobile has continually broadened, adding thousands of cars in the last year.

Ulster county has 3,285 cars of which 3,057 are pleasure, 188 commercial and the remainder dealers and exempts. There were 828 chauffers in the county last year, an increase of 212.

The county had 208 motorcycles last year. All told the county contributed the sum of $25,360.25 towards the $2,658,041 which the automobile bureau took in during 1916. Incidentally while the receipts increased approximately $700,000, the cost of operating the bureau dropped nearly 3 per cent.

By the provisions of the Brown bill the receipts of the automobile bureau are now divided equally between state and county, the entire amount going towards the betterment of highways with the exception of that which is paid over to Greater New York and which goes into the city's general fund.

Up to date this state has expended about $90,000,000 on its highways. The maintenance and repair is now costing about $4,500,000 a year. The state has approximately 7,000 miles of state and county highways. So complete is the system that it has been figured that an automobilist can travel for three consecutive months in this state without ever leaving improved highways.

This state now has a car to every 32 persons, California one to every 16 and Iowa one to every 8. In 1901 there were 954 cars registered in this state. Today there are over 325,000 and next year will probably see 400,000.

GRANITE.

Granite, March 5.—On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Purcell were delightfully surprised by a number of their friends, being thirty-three in all. The evening was spent with different kinds of games. There was music and singing during the evening. At a late hour refreshments were served, everyone enjoying themselves. Mr. and Mrs. Purcell proved charming entertainers, and all departed at a late hour, declaring they had had a most glorious time.

Here's One of the Ways Malicious Lies were Circulated about CAMEL Cigarettes

In an effort to injure the wonderful sale of CAMEL cigarettes, many unprincipled schemes have been resorted to. The following is one of many ways such lies have been put into circulation.

An individual liar would approach a group of men, produce a newspaper, published in a distant city, and apparently become interested in reading. Suddenly he would exclaim, "What do you think of this?" He would then pretend to read an article about CAMEL cigarettes. In reality, the paper contained no such statement. The individual would at once walk away, carrying the paper with him. A newspaper from a distant city was always used in an effort to cover the tracks of the liar.

Would anyone voluntarily do this kind of unprincipled work? They must have been paid by someone to do it, and all of them should be exposed. An honest man will not knowingly work under the direction of a crooked superior, nor will an honest superior knowingly tolerate a crooked employee. However, some salesmen have told the trade that they had in their possession a newspaper containing a damaging article about CAMEL cigarettes. This was a malicious falsehood, as they had no such newspaper, and when asked to produce it, they were unable to do so.

CAMEL cigarettes are pure and delightful and the most popular cigarettes ever sold at any price. Cigarette smokers will not, for any length of time, permit malicious falsehoods to prejudice them against CAMELS.

SUPREME COURT, ULSTER COUNTY.—Jesse E. Boice and Catharine G. Boice, plaintiffs, against Della Chapin and Horace Chapin, her husband, Tillie France and Adelbert France, her husband, Lon Wolcock, Wilbur Van Demark, Mame Ruth Van Demark, Maud Van Demark Giulrappe and Clarence Giulrappe.

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of the Honorable G. D. B. Hasbrouck, a justice of the supreme court of the state of New York, dated the 23rd day of December, 1916, and filed on the 9th day of January, 1917, with a copy of the complaint, in the office of the clerk of the county of Ulster, in the city of Kingston, in said state of New York, the original complaint having been filed in said office on the 21st day of September, 1916. The object of this action is to make a partition according to the respective rights of the parties, and if it appear that partition cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners, then for a sale of the following described property:

All That Tract or Parcel of Land, situate in the town of Olive, county of Ulster and state of New York, at or near a place called Tongore, and is bounded as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at a chestnut tree standing against or near the south end of a ledge of rocks and runs from thence south eighty-eight and one-half degrees east twelve chains and sixty-six links to a white oak tree corner; then north seven and one-half degrees east eleven chains and thirty-five links; then north twenty-two degrees east twelve chains to a heap of stones; then sixty-four and a quarter degrees fourteen chains and twenty-five links to a rock oak tree standing against a ledge of rocks, marked; then south fifty-nine and one-half degrees west twenty-one chains and forty-two links to a heap of stones against an east side of a hill; then south eleven degrees west ten chains and twenty-five links to a black oak tree marked on a ledge of rocks; then along the same south thirteen degrees west five chains and sixty links to the place of beginning, containing fifty-eight acres of land, more or less.

Also another tract of land situate as aforesaid and adjoining the above described lot, at or near a place called Deer Park and is distinguished on map by lot No. 45 and is butted and bounded as follows, viz:

Beginning at oak tree marked 44, 45 being the northwesterly corner of lot No. 44, from thence running along the same south fifty degrees east thirty-three chains and twenty links to a stake and stones, 44, 45, then north twenty-three degrees east twenty chains to a black oak tree marked 45, then south fifty-four degrees west six chains to a white oak tree being the southwesterly corner formerly of Oreamore North, then along the same north eighty-eight and one-half degrees west twelve chains and sixty links to a chestnut tree standing against or near a ledge of rocks; then north thirteen degrees east five chains and eighty links to a rock oak tree on a ledge of rocks; then north eighty-four degrees west sixteen chains to a black oak tree then south thirty-six degrees west one chain and fifty links to the place of beginning, containing twenty-six acres of land, more or less.

Also another lot of land situate as aforesaid and on the northeast side of the first described lot, and is bounded as follows, viz:

Beginning where a straight line from the northeasterly side or at the line between the property of Charles North and James Wilbell, was surveyed and established and where the same would intersect or does intersect Deer Park Road, and then down said road until it strikes a white oak sapling marked or about sixty rods then to the ledge of rocks a few rods southeasterly to the edge of the same; then as said ledge runs southerly to the end of the first stone-wall, then southeasterly along and through said wall to the bounds of James Robbins, then along his bounds southwesterly to the bounds of the first described lot, and along the same and other lands to the point aforesaid, and the place of beginning, containing eleven acres of land, more or less.

Excepting and reserving out of the same eleven acres heretofore conveyed to Jacob Boice, reference to his deed will more fully appear and by the said Jacob Boice conveyed to Henry Winchell aforesaid, the same according to survey made by Broadhead, Esq., to be recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office.

Also another lot of four acres reserved by the said Henry Winchell, bounded as follows: northwesterly by the Deer Park road, and east side of the Deer Park road, to be reserved out of the said two described lots.

Certain-teed

CERTAIN-TEED stands out conspicuously for quality, satisfaction, and economy. Any product bearing the name CERTAIN-TEED will measure up on all of these points. These are cold facts.

Certain-teed Roofing

is the efficient type of roof. It is suitable for factories, office buildings, farm buildings, etc. For residences it is made in slate surfaced shingles.

CERTAIN-TEED costs less to buy, less to lay, and less per year of life. CERTAIN-TEED is light weight, clean, sanitary, and fire retardant. It will not dry out and is weather-tight.

It is made in three thicknesses—but only one quality—the best. It is guaranteed 5, 10 or 15 years according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply).

This guarantee is backed by the largest manufacture of prepared roofings and building papers in the world.

If you are building, or need a new roof, it will pay you to investigate CERTAIN-TEED before deciding upon any type of roof. For sale by dealers, everywhere.

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes

are good, dependable products made by expert paint men, and guaranteed to give satisfaction. They are sold at a price which would not be possible if we depended upon an exclusive paint organization to market our product.

The enormous resources of Certain-teed Products Corporation, and its extensive organization for distribution of CERTAIN-TEED products, make it possible to take advantage of every economy in buying, manufacturing and selling.

Even the professional painter can afford to use CERTAIN-TEED paints rather than to mix his own. Uncertainty is eliminated, waste and left-overs avoided, and quality is assured.

Whether you do your painting or employ a professional painter, your interests will be best served if you insist on CERTAIN-TEED paints and varnishes.

STRUCK OUT FOUR MEN

Unusual Stunt Was Performed In Game With Athletics—Willie Mitchell Claims He Fanned Seven Batsmen in Same Inning.

Guy Morton of the Indians was the only major-league pitcher of 1916 to strike out four men in one inning. The Alabama Arrow performed this unusual feat in the sixth frame of the game of June 11 against the Athletics, his victims being Lawton Witt, Charley Pick, Napoleon Lajoie and Jack McInnis. Witt reached first because his third strike also was a wild pitch.

To strike out four men in one session is not a novelty for a major-league pitcher, though the occurrence does not often crop up. Willie Mitchell, who started the season an Indian and finished it a Tiger, says he once fanned seven men in one chapter, his opponents meanwhile gathering four runs. He claims to have done this in 1909 for San Antonio against Houston. Willie says his catcher that day was Dolly Starke, one time Superba shortstop. Mitchell says Dolly broke the record for passed balls and that this was the reason he was able to fan seven.

The day Morton had the Athletics so thoroughly on his staff only 3 of the 13 Muckmen who batted against him escaped being whiffed. They were Reuben Oldring and Billy Meyer, who were in the controversy from start to finish, and Bill Steilbauer, who ripped off a single when he batted for Jack Nabors in the eighth. Strunk fanned three times, Lajoie and Witt each fanned twice and McInnis, Walsh, Myers, Nabors, Pick and Schang each fanned once.

Denton Young (Cy L.) probably performed a feat unequaled by anyone when on April 9, 1900, pitching for the Guy Morton.

Cardinals against the Pirates, he scattered his nine strikeouts so that one came in every inning.

The feat of striking out three men in one inning was accomplished 27 times in the American league last season, men who did it more than once being Claude Williams, Urban Faber, Willie Mitchell and Walter Johnson. The first named had three such performances to his credit, the others each two.

A. A. U. ANNOUNCE DATES

Frederick W. Rubien, chairman of the A. A. U. championship committee, has announced the dates for A. A. U. championship fixtures as follows:

March 15, 16 and 17—National basketball championships at Chicago, under the auspices of the Illinois Athletic club.

March 17—National indoor track and field championships at New York, under the auspices of the championship committee.

April 2 and 3—National boxing championships at Boston, under the auspices of the Boston Athletic association.

April 20—National gymnastic championships at New York, under the auspices of the championship committee.

May 11 and 12—National wrestling championships at Portland, Ore., under the auspices of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club.

SALARIES PAID TO PLAYERS

Bill Lange, Greatest Outfielder in His Day, Was Given Annual Stipend of $1,600.

When Bill Lange, who was somewhat of a ball player back in the old days, was playing with the Chicago Colts, he drew down a salary of $1,500. That was back in 1893. And today Ty Cobb, a great player in this age of baseball, draws down an annual stipend said to be $20,000.

When Cap Anson was the manager of the old Chicago club he received $2,700, and Hutchinson, the great hurler, got $2,500 for his work. Today there are any number of players who would snicker at such salaries.

WILLIE HOPPE.

HOPPE A GOLFING FAILURE.

Willie Hoppe, the billiard genius, has gone in for golf, but, as Hoppe admits, he isn't making any very great success of it. Hoppe has found golf very different from billiards, although he claims that he believes his ability at billiards finally will help him at golf as soon as he masters the rudiments of it. Hoppe says he has used plenty of "English" on his clubs, but beyond shocking some fair golfers once or twice, the results were scarcely of value.

TESTING SUBMARINES.

It Is an Easier Task Now Than It Was a Few Years Ago.

Vessels built to navigate under water require particular care in their construction, for when they are submerged they have to withstand the pressure of water from all sides without showing the slightest leak.

The newest submarines must be able to sink to a depth of 150 feet or more. At such a depth the pressure is tremendous, and if the joints are not perfect water squirts in as though through a hose pipe. Ten years ago testing a new submarine was a dangerous job. She might not be watertight. Her balance might not be perfect, or, again, the air system might not be equal to blowing out the water from her tanks.

Terrible accidents have occurred in testing new under water boats during actual submergence, but today all that is a thing of the past. A testing dock is used, which was invented by an Italian engineer, Major Laurenti. It is a huge cylinder, into which the submarine is floated. A caisson at the end is closed and hermetically sealed. The cylinder is built so as to stand tremendous pressure, and pressure is slowly applied until it equals something far greater than the submarine herself will ever be called on to endure.

The men inside are in communication with those outside by means of telephone, so that if anything goes wrong the trial can at once cease.—Pearson's Weekly.

Ellis Island.

In the prehistoric days of the American continent the Indians called what is now Ellis island, the immigrant station in New York harbor, Kioshk, which in English means Gull island. The tribes thereabout had some strange traditions about it.

"BEER is a beverage prepared from cereals, water, hops and yeast. It contains 5 per cent. solid matter and only 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol. Beer is not intoxicating in ordinary quantities and is one of the few foods that is free from bacteria."

PROF. CHANDLER, of Columbia University.

What is Beer?

In starting to tell what beer really is, it would perhaps be better to tell what beer is not. Beer, on account of its small per cent. of alcohol, is no more a dangerous intoxicant than coffee, with its small per cent. of caffeine, is a dangerous drug.

There is no mystery about beer. All beers are made from an extract of cereals such as barley, malt, rice and corn. The starch of the cereals is converted during the brewing process into sugar. The liquid is boiled and hops are added to impart their agreeable bitter taste and flavor. After boiling, the liquid is cooled and fermented with yeast.

If there is anything harmful in any of these materials it is yet to be discovered. The same materials, with the exception of the hops, are used in the manufacture of bread and in many of the food products of today, and the hop plant has never been suspected of being anything but a desirable tonic herb.

The fermenting process gives beer its life and stimulating power. It is the same process that goes on in cider making, but whereas the farmer making cider leaves much to chance, the brewer absolutely controls the ultimate result of his brewing. For by boiling his extract before fermentation it is sterilized and the yeast used is a pure culture especially selected for beer brewing.

The small percentage of alcohol in beer results naturally from the process of fermentation—just as in cider—but cider usually has more alcohol than beer. Some cider makers increase the amount of alcohol by adding sugar to the must. They want alcohol to keep cider from spoiling. The brewer brews so as to have only 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol and he relies on sterilization, cleanliness and an expensive system of refrigeration to keep his beer from spoiling.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The engagement of Miss Pauline Vogel of West Union street to Richard Adin of No. 57 Meadow street, has been announced.

The Loyal Friends' Aid Society will hold their regular meeting at the Hebrew school Tuesday evening, March 6. All members are urged to be present.

A meeting of the Children of the American Revolution will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Chapter House. Every member is urged to attend this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Every entertained about twenty-five of their friends on Saturday evening at their home, No. 357 Hasbrouck avenue. The evening was delightfully spent with games and music and at a late hour refreshments were served. Shortly before midnight the guests departed all stating that they had spent a most enjoyable evening.

Miss Maude Dudley of Elmendorf street entertained her Sunday school class in honor of her birthday on Saturday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in playing games, after which dainty refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Helen Turner, (teacher,) Marjorie Tillson, Alice McLaughlin, Edna Davis, Ruth Newkirk, Caroline Van Keuren Winifred Low, Sarah Davis, Helen Schoonmaker, Genevieve Whipple, Gladys Reynolds, Isabel Herdman, Ada Brown, Jennie Short, Kathryn Sparling, Maude Dudley, Hope Powell and Mrs. W. K. Powell. The guests left wishing Miss Dudley many more happy birthdays.

The Coterie.

The Coterie held its regular meeting with Mrs. Kingman at her home on Highland avenue, on Saturday afternoon. "Nome," was the chief subject under consideration for the day. Miss Huber had the principal paper on "Alaska, an Empire in the Making," and she told most interestingly of Alaska in the days when it was a Russian possession. During the later part of that period a certain Siberian count did much for the country, in a pioneer way, instituting the fur trading, the fisheries, etc., and making slight gold discoveries. Still the country was but little developed until it came into possession of the United States, at the time of purchase from Russia. The growth since that time was noted, as well as the resources of fur bearing animals, games, fish, gold, etc. The government under the various commissions is also, little by little becoming more completely unified and perfected. Mrs. Weyant had the second paper on the topic of "The Romance of Nome." Mrs. Weyant first told of the early days when it was a city of tents and then of the sudden boom when in two years it grew to a city of from 28,000 to 30,000 inhabitants. It is now a city of white frame houses with a population of about 7,000. While the working summers are regrettably short, it is a very busy place and in winter it is gay and full of social activities, since it is too cold to work. In addition to the information entertainingly presented in the paper, an exceedingly interesting letter was read by Mrs. Weyant from a former missionary who visited Nome, with her husband, in 1899, 1900, 1907 and 1911, and who noted the growth and progress in the city during those years, besides describing the life there. A third paper and a very informing and entertaining one, was the delayed paper on "The Conquest of Manila," given by Mrs. Flemming. After enjoying a social hour, the club adjourned to meet the next time with Mrs. Patchen.

Woman's Missionary Society.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will be held at the manse Tuesday afternoon, March 6, at 3 o'clock. Program—Devotional exercises; reports of the year; election of officers. The subject for foreign mission study, "The Living Christ in Latin America," will be presented in two papers, "The Birth of the Latin American Republics" by Miss Emma L. Turner, and "Temperamental Racial Differences," by Miss Mary H. Baker. All the ladies of the congregation are cordially invited.

Piano Recital.

The pupils of Miss Sophie Schmidtkonz gave a piano recital on Saturday afternoon at her home, 72 Hone street. The program was attractive and well rendered, each number showing the careful work of both pupil and teacher. Those of the pupils who played were the following: Kathryn Van Valkenburgh, Iva Finley, Helen Keappen, George Delaney, Elizabeth Walker, Angelus Colburn, Silvia Relrea, Mary Coffin, Elizabeth Liebig, Paul Terpening, Ethel Tongue, Frederick Buchholtz, Daniel Bittner.

Col. Klein Due Tuesday.

New Paltz, March 5.—Colonel Klein, commanding the 10th Regiment, New York National Guard, who has been enjoying a furlough of several weeks in the south, will arrive at headquarters, New Paltz, on Tuesday, March 6, according to the present plans. Colonel Klein lives at Floral Park, Long Island.

A Sign of Spring.

Parties have been in Tannersville this week negotiating for the rental of the Mt. Summit House. Painters and carpenters have also been busy on the repair work there.

Optimistic Thought.

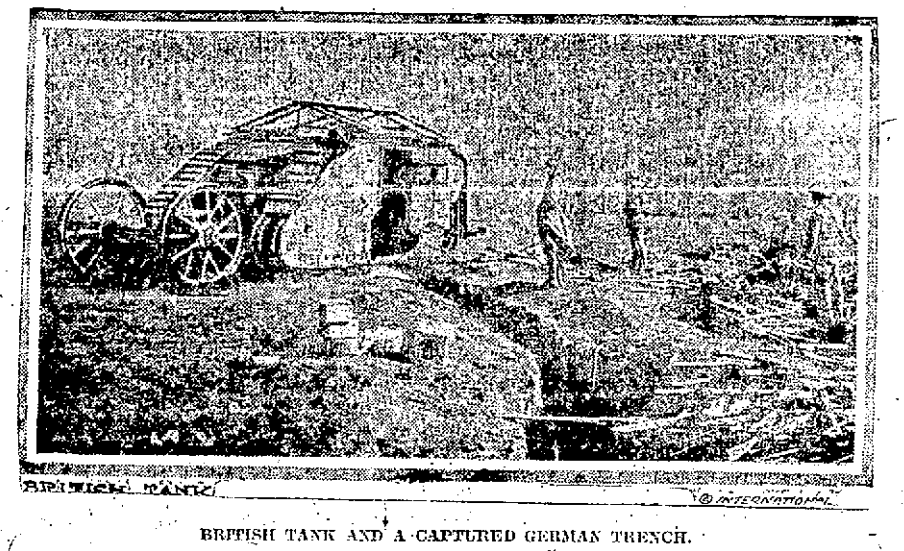

It costs more to revenge injuries than it does to bear them.

"THE MAN WITH THE HOE" POSING FOR PORTRAIT.

(Edwin Markham.)

Rufus Boynton, the noted painter (on the left), is shown at his New York studio working on a portrait of Edwin Markham, the author of "The Man With the Hoe," and other well known poems. The sittings have been continuing for weeks, and the portrait, which is said to be a striking likeness of the poet, is now nearly completed.

FORD TOOK A HIGH FENCE.

Marlborough Chauffer Avoided Hitting Horse.

Skidding off the road and bounding over a fence a Ford touring car from the Marlborough Garage was wrecked in the grape vineyard of Charles Young opposite the residence of Mrs. Harrison Corwin in Marlborough about 10 o'clock Friday morning. The accident happened when Andrew Knapp, an employe of the garage, who was driving the car, veered from his course to avoid hitting a horse and wagon. As he turned, the car skidded on the slippery road, jumped both sidewalk and fence and crashed against posts in the Young grape arbor. The car turned completely around, resting on its left side with the radiator pointing toward the road. A post in the vineyard was broken off and jammed into the tonneau. The machine was badly damaged otherwise. Mr. Knapp, the driver, was uninjured beyond a severe shaking up.

Werbalowsky Buys a Hotel.

Simon Werbalowsky of Meadow street has purchased the Pine Plains Hotel at Pine Plains, Dutchess county, and will take possession April 1. The hotel contains 26 rooms and four stores are in the same building. The purchase also included an ice house filled with ice and a tenement house. Mr. Werbalowsky will cater to the summer-boarding trade.

Sheriff in Lunch Room.

By virtue of an execution in favor of Elting Longyear, Sheriff Shultis this morning seized the furniture and furnishings in the lunch room of Richard Ryan at 576 Broadway and will sell them at auction at that place on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The amount of Mr. Longyear's judgment is $517.

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, March 5.—General Agent D. N. Finger and Freight Clerks William Wey and Alfred Russ of Rhinebeck, Frank Ludtke of Tarrytown, Frank H. Myer and Harry M. Finger of Saugerties were entertained on Saturday by President John A. Snyder of the Saugerties & New York Steamboat Company at Mulford's Cafe on Partition street.

George Roosa of Ulster avenue was operated on for an intestinal trouble at the Wauna Sanitarium, Kingston Friday, by Drs. O'Meara and Emerick.

Clarence Disbrow and family have moved from the Lazarus Cottage on Washington avenue to the house of Richard Spellman on Cedar street.

Neighborhood gatherings will be resumed in Trinity Episcopal Chapel next Sunday evening.

Trinity Episcopal Church, which has been in the hands of contractors for the past few months, will be used for regular service Sunday, March 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. Genio Goetcheus of Livingston street, who have been spending some time in Union Hill, N. J., have returned home.

Misses Millie and Annie Lang of Russell street are spending some time in Brooklyn.

Miss Annie Phillips and friend of Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phelps on Main street.

E. C. Reed of Main street is spending a few days in Atlantic City.

Miss Edna Martin of Hill street is spending the week in New York city.

George McNally, who is employed in Vermont, spent the week end with his family on Russell street.

Irving Russell if John street is in Washington, D. C., where he will attend the inaugural ceremonies.

Seeing the Other Side.

We know a man who has worked all his life for others; for his parents for awhile, then for a wife and children and some of her kin. The world rates him as moderately successful, but his own actual monetary compensation has just about amounted to board and clothes. And at home he hears some complaint because he doesn't do better. You hear much of the joy of service, but sometimes there are two sides.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

Looking for Virtues.

When you have a mind to divert your fancy, consider the good qualities of your acquaintances; as the enterprising vigor of this man, the modesty of another, the liberality of a third, and so on. For there is nothing so entertaining as a lively image of the virtues exhibited in the character of those we converse with, occurring as numerously as possible. Let this, therefore, be always at hand:—Marcus Aurelius Antoninus.

Gold in History.

Gold was known from the earliest historic times, and is mentioned in the eleventh verse of the second chapter of Genesis. At first it was chiefly used for ornaments. The trade of the goldsmith is mentioned in the fourth verse of the seventeenth chapter of Judges. In connection with the overlaying of idols with gold leaf.

Worth an Introduction.

'Tis well to know one's own mind, but it's at least equally important to have a mind worth getting acquainted with.—Buffalo Times.

Substitute for Tobacco.

Throughout the tropical Orient the natives employ a substitute for tobacco consisting of a slice of aricapnlm nut, wrapped in betel leaf, flavored with a fine lime made of native sea shells, and colored with carmine. The habit is universal, especially with the women, and sellers of "betel nut" may be seen on many of the street corners in Saigon and other cities of Indo-China.

Quite Simple.

Jim Jones—"But how can I love my neighbor as myself, when his dog howls all night?" The Parson—"Why, very easy, brother Jones—very easy—just poison his dog!"—Puck.

Safeguarder.

Here is an advertisement of an extremely mannish vest lined with peau de cygne, but even if we can't find out in time what peau de cygne is we suppose we can guard against putting on our wife's by mistake by looking for the drawstring.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Greeks Made Use of Tin.

The Greeks, in the Homeric times were familiar with the metal tin. Copper, tin and gold were used by Hephaestus in welding the famous shield of Achilles. Twenty layers of tin were in the cuirass of Agamemnon. No allusion to tin is found in the "Odyssey."

Life.

"Young man, there is nothing worse than high life on a low salary," said the wise man who is always giving advice. "Oh, I don't know," replied the young man who knew a thing or two himself, "it's no worse than low life on a high salary."—Florida Times-Union.

Influence on Character.

In the molding of character nothing matters so much as influence. It is the heart of all education, the inner secret of home and of school. More than any wit or genius is the value there of simple goodness, "moral thoughtfulness." Surround a life with its rays and dormant goodness will not fail to come to birth.

Standardized Lines

Less time consumed in the actual selling means more time for personal contact with our friends

Our shelves hold only standardized lines—products half sold by a name of merit gained by years of service They cost more to us—in money—but they have time for the often hurried motorist to request a long lifting explanation of that point That's what we want to illustrate consider Miller Geared to the Road TIRES

Here is an established brand—a product deep rooted in the regard of thousands of motorists It is a real pleasure to sell Miller No arguing—no visions of a scowling returning face A quick sale And the saved time can be devoted to assisting you

Interesting Patriotic Ceremony at St James's Church Sunday Evening

An intensely interesting feature of the service Sunday night in the St James Methodist Episcopal Church was the presentation and dedication of a handsome silk flag the gift of a member of the church who in this manner expressed his love for America

After the sermon and while the organ played 'Columbia the Gem of the Ocean' the lovely flag was brought to the platform by Miss Alberta Silkworth who presented it for dedication The large congregation stood as this was done and the male choir sang 'The Star Spangled Banner Then Dr Hemingwith the pastor in a few well chosen words dedicated the flag for service in the church and after he had led them solemnly to renew their pledge of loyalty to America he lifted it into place above the marble font at the left of the pulpit.

The new flag is worthy of the fine audience room in which it has found a permanent place

YOUNG man wants to learn to run an automobile; willing to pay for experience. Apply at 559 Broadway. "The Broadway House."

ADVERTISEMENT WRITING.

UNWISE advertising economy is an acquired habit with many merchants, like olives and moving pictures, but when the habit is continued—curtain! They seem to believe that each time they blackjack a dollar and lay it away on ice, withdrawing it from their advertising expenditures, they have done wisely. Really, such business men are short-changing themselves. Well written advertisements are business getters. The other kind won't do at all. Let me write you advs. with "pep and punch." George M. Zeltmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

PLOT TO ASSASSINATE PRESIDENT "WENT WRONG"

Hoboken Police Seize Explosives in Hotel Room and Arrest Man Who Confesses He Helped Cause Black Tom and Kingsland Explosions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 5.—Secret Service officers and a squad of police this afternoon broke into a room in the Commercial Hotel, Hoboken, N. J., and arrested a man who gave his name as Richard Kalb, 36.

A large supply of bombs, dynamite, picric acid and nitro-glycerine was confiscated. According to Chief of Police Hayes of Hoboken, Kalb not only confessed to having participated in the Black Tom and Kingsland explosions, but agreed to give the names of fourteen men, who, he said, were associated with him in a conspiracy to assassinate President Wilson in Washington today.

Kalb is said to have told the secret service men and police that "something went wrong" with the plot against the president, and that it had to be abandoned.

Sixteen completed bombs were found in Kalb's room and it was reported he was working on another when the officers broke in. Kalb is said to have admitted that the sixteen bombs were to have been sent to Washington to be used in an attempt on President Wilson's life. Further search of his room developed the fact that besides other explosives he had in his possession a considerable quantity of the deadly crystals known as "T. N. T."

Chief Hayes, Captain Thomas Garret and six Hoboken policemen accompanied the federal detectives to the hotel. Kalb submitted to arrest calmly but evidently was greatly surprised.

The police refused to give out any information concerning the search for Kalb, but admitted they had been hunting for him for a week and only located him this morning. Members of the New York "bomb squad" are said to have supplied some of the information that led to his arrest.

The Black Tom explosion, in which Kalb is said by the police to have admitted participation, occurred on the morning of July 30, 1916, rocked five states and did $25,000,000 damage. Munitions on barges and piers on Black Tom Island harbor let go with terrific force, shaking all the lower part of New York city and causing the loss of several lives. The possibility that Teutonic spies might have caused the explosion was investigated and several men were taken into custody as suspects. The origin of the explosion was never really determined.

The Kingsland, N. J., plant of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, Ltd., was wrecked by a $10,000,000 explosion on the night of January 11, 1917. The company was manufacturing munitions for the Russian government. Officials said at the time they believed the fire that caused the explosion was of incendiary origin.

Impeachment Cases.

Although one president of the United States (Johnson), one cabinet officer (Belknap), six United States judges and eight governors of states have been impeached since the foundation of the republic, only one senator, William Blount of Tennessee, has been arraigned before the bar of the house of congress to which he was elected. Of the eight governors impeached one was acquitted, in three cases the charges were dropped, one was permitted to resign, and three were removed. Three of the impeached judges were removed, and three were acquitted. Both President Johnson and Secretary Belknap were acquitted. Politically the last named impeachment cases were the most important the United States has experienced.—Argonaut.

CARUSO REMAINS IN COUNTY JAIL

Judge Jenkins today handed down a decision in the habeas corpus proceedings taken by Agostino Caruso of Glasco against Sheriff Shultis after his commitment to jail to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, dismissing the writ and remanding Caruso to jail.

The habeas corpus proceeding was instituted by Caruso's counsel, Frederick E. W. Darrow, who appeared on the argument with Frank W. Brooks, of counsel. The legal status of the case was defended by District Attorney Traver. City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., appeared for the complaining witness against Caruso.

Pistol and Submarine.

Some boys fishing through the ice in the creek today caught a weird looking lizard which they at first thought to be an offspring from the mysterious "sea monster" seen in local waters last summer. The creature proved to be a mud puppy of the American genus of salamanders, sometimes called a hellbender. It was given a refuge in Ben Johnston's window front and placed in a glass jar of water, labelled submarine. An old English pistol with a brass barrel, the property of Martin LeFevre, formerly of New Paltz, features the other window.

THE WAY TO SUCCEED.

Charles M. Schwab's Advice to Young Men Starting to Work.

In his book "Succeeding With What You Have" Charles M. Schwab says:

"When I took charge of the Carnegie works at Homestead there was a young chap employed there as water boy. A little later he became a clerk. I had a habit of going over the works at unusual hours, to see how everything was moving. I noticed that no matter what time I came around I would find the former water boy hard at work. I never learned when he slept.

"Now, there seemed to be nothing remarkable about this fellow except his industry. The only way in which he attracted attention was by working longer hours and getting better results than any one else. It was not long before we needed an assistant superintendent. The ex-water boy got the job. When we established our great armor plate department there was not the slightest difference of opinion among the partners as to who should be manager. It was the youth with the penchant for overtime service.

"Today that ex-water boy, Alva C. Dinkey, is head of a great steel company and very wealthy. His rise was predicated on his willingness to work as long as there was any work to be done.

"If a young man entering industry were to ask me for advice I would say: Don't be afraid of imperiling your health by giving a few extra hours to the company that pays you your salary. Don't be reluctant about putting on overalls. Bare hands grip success better than kid gloves. Be thorough in all things, no matter how small or distasteful. The man who counts his hours and kicks about his salary is a self elected failure.

"It may be in seemingly unimportant things that a man expresses his passion for perfection, yet they will count heavily in the long run. When you go into your customary barber shop you will wait for the man who gives you a little better shave, a little trimmer hair cut. Business leaders are looking for the same things in their offices that you look for in the barber shop.

"The real test of business greatness is in giving opportunity to others. Many business men fail in this because they are thinking only of personal glory."

Our Land Extension.

Great Britain is no longer the only nation that can say the sun never sets on its territory. Since the United States acquired the Danish West Indies it can make the same boast.

Hitherto the little island of Culebra, which is virtually a part of Porto Rico, has been our most easterly point of land and the island of Balabac, in the Philippines, our most westerly point. The distance between them is just a little less than 180 degrees, or half the circumference of the earth. St. Croix, in the Danish West Indies, is thirty-eight miles farther east than Culebra, enough to bridge the gap. Just as the sun is rising on St. Croix it is setting on Balabac.—Youth's Companion.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Vigorous buying in the late forenoon caused brisk advances, some issues selling at new high records for the year. Cuba Cane advanced from 40⅞ to 43⅜, American Beet Sugar from 89⅜ to 92⅝ and American Sugar Refining rose 2½ to 112½. General Motor advanced 3 points to 115. Steel Common, after selling at 107⅝ rose to above 109. Utah Copper advanced to 113¾, and Anaconda to 84. Money loaning at 2½ per cent.

Nearly all the interest during the afternoon was attached to the vigorous buying of the steel issues, the Bethlehem Steel A stock advancing from 128½ to 140, while the B stock sold up to 115¾. The rights were also in urgent demand and rose to 15½. Steel Common was active and strong and sold around 110 and there were vigorous advances in many of the industrials, Great Northern Ore advancing 2½ to 35¼.

GLASCO.

Glasco, March 5.—"Uncle Mart" Lasher's contract for carrying the mail between Glasco and Saugerties will expire on June 30. After that date Dominick Mawfro will take the job, his bid having been accepted by the post office department. Mawfro has been conveying the "mill girls" to and from Saugerties since Thomas Nolan sold out. The people all along the route will certainly miss "Uncle Mart," as he was always very accommodating and careful for the comfort and safety of passengers, especially ladies and children. When he wasn't blowing his whistle he was singing or entertaining his fares with jokes. He never was known to forget an errand but once, and then he was so worried about it that he turned right about and drove back to Saugerties for it rather than disappoint the parties. At the present time "Uncle Mart" is confined to his home by an attack of grip.

Roma and Louis Mermie, brothers, are seriously ill of grip, the former on the verge of pneumonia. Dr. Gifford and Miss Edna Low, nurse, are attending them. Dr. Chandler was called in consultation on Saturday morning.

John T. Washburn is moving into his new residence on Barclay Heights. Mr. and Mrs. Washburn have given their personal attention to all the details that make for convenience, comfort and style in the building and have certainly worked out their plans to a degree of perfection seldom equalled in the construction of an ideal home.

The evangelistic meetings at the M. E. Church will continue this week. They are well attended and are meeting with success.

Treat For Music Lovers.

In the coming of Francis Macmillen, the great American violinist, to this city on Wednesday evening of next week, music lovers are assured of one of the rarest of treats. Since at the age of 16, he was declared the Laureate of the Brussels Royal Conservatory and the winner of the $5,000 Van Hal cash prize. Macmillen has swept all before him both in Europe and America. He will play at the high school auditorium bringing to a close the 1916-17 season of Dodge concerts.

No Driver on Uphill Work.

As we lope off to press, a horse and sleigh belonging to Edward T. McGill are running in an opposite direction, up Broadway. Later bulletins announce the catching of the animal half way up the hill. No casualties are reported.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The Junior Ladies' Aid Society of St. James M. E. Church will hold a sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. William Groenemeyer, No. 69 Brewster street, on Wednesday afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Baraca and Philathea Classes of the Wurts Street Baptist Sunday school will be held this evening in the chapel. A musical program has been arranged and refreshments will be served.

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association of School No. 5, will be held Tuesday, March 6, at 3:30 p. m. Business of importance, including the forming of a sewing school, will be transacted. Every member is urged to be present.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Reformed Church will be held on Tuesday evening at the home of the Misses Elsie and Gertrude Grant, 109 St. James street. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold their annual election of officers in the lecture room of the Church of the Comforter, March 7, at half past seven o'clock, in the evening. Preceding the election will be a business meeting to close all business of the past year. Following the election refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed. Each member is privileged to bring with them a guest.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Mrs. Elias Reynolds died at her home in Pleasantville, Dutchess county, Thursday, aged 101 years. She had lived for 80 years at Croton Lake.

Catherine Gillette, wife of the late Charles H. King, died in Flatbush, Brooklyn, on Sunday afternoon. The remains will be brought to Kingston for interment and notice of funeral will be given later.

The funeral of Miss Eva Winans, who died on Tuesday at her home, Hill street, Saugerties, was held at her late residence, Sunday afternoon, the Rev. R. P. Ingersoll officiating. The remains were placed in the mortuary chapel vault, and later will be taken to Hyde Park, N. Y., for interment.

The funeral of Miss Mari Post, who died Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Brown, of East Kingston, was held at the residence of Miss Jennie Gillepsy, Second street, Saugerties, on Sunday afternoon, the Rev. Frank Scoville, a former pastor of the Congregational Church, officiating. Interment was in Mountain View Cemetery.

Smith D. Niver, for seven years city editor of the Catskill Mail, died Friday in Golden, Col., Friday where he had gone to take a position as editor and manager of The Globe, published there. His end was unexpected and was almost coincidental with his arrival in Golden. The ... of San Antonio, Texas, where he had spent the winter caused a collapse.

Elizabeth Gregory, wife of the late Matthew Moyle, died on Sunday at her home in this city, aged 87 years. Mrs. Moyle for the past 40 years had been a member of the Trinity M. E. Church and had been an earnest church worker and member. The funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Brenn, No. 385 Broadway. The Rev. Weyant of Trinity M. E. Church and Rev. Stowe of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, will have charge of the services. Mrs. Moyle is survived by eight children: Caroline, wife of Henry Dunbar; Elizabeth, wife of John H. Decker; Emma, wife of John B. Brenn; Effie, wife of Charles Fuller; Keturah, wife of George O. Macker, all of this city; and Samuel J. Moyle of Buenos Ayres, South America; Matthew of Brooklyn and William of Kingston. Interment will be in Montrepose Cemetery.

The funeral services of the late John J. Dempsey of New York city were held on Saturday morning last at 11 o'clock at St. Charles Boromeo Church. The church was filled with relatives, friends and business associates of Mr. Dempsey. A large delegation of Castillian Council, K. of C., and another of the Holy Name Society attended the services in a body. The floral tokens which were profuse and beautiful, and many of which were from Kingston, formed a silent tribute to the high esteem in which Mr. Dempsey was held. A solemn requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father ..., rector, pastor of the church, with the Rev. Father Kehoe, a cousin of deceased, of Philadelphia, as deacon and the Rev. Father Flynn of Warwick, N. Y., as sub deacon. The Right Rev. Monsignor Wall, an intimate friend of the family, was seated in the sanctuary during the service. As the body was borne from the church Mrs. J. W. Leary of Kingston sang "Face to Face." Accompanied by the Rev. Mgr. Wall and the Rev. Fathers Flynn, Kehoe and Riley, the body was laid to rest in the family plot at St. Raymond's, West Chester.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Markle, with their relatives of Hoboken, N. J., who are visiting them, visited friends in Kingston on Wednesday last.

Agricultural Problem Solved.

A close study of soils and crops shows that the relation is purely natural, in that crops showing a preference for a certain soil is due entirely to the demands of these crops for a definite amount of water and warmth. Plant food is a secondary consideration, and as this can easily be supplied by man the problem is solved.

KINGSTON GIRLS HAD A WALK-OVER

Basketball Victory Over Middletown Talent by Score of 26 to 5—Red Hook Scouts Cancelled Game With Midgets

A sad disappointment was the basketball fracas between the Middletown and Kingston girls Saturday afternoon in the local gym which turned out to be a walk over for the locals though heralded as a close fight on account of the visitors previous standing The score was 26 5

The Middletown [illegible] were very poor at shooting though the good work of Kingston's guards was largely responsible In advancing the ball the home girls were greatly superior Ladies boys rules were used which tended to quicken the action somewhat as all the players were qualified to shoot

The locals after finishing the first half by a score of 20 ? slowed up in the last considerably scoring only six points Mr Schmitz of Middletown and Mr Schumaker of this city refereed Six fouls were called on each team The line up was as follows

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT

Use of Mineral Oil

Dr L Tanneur contributes to the Paris Medical some practical points in the use of mineral oil in constipation The oil he says is in no way digested or even modified by the juices of the stomach and intestines It acts as a lubricant and nothing else though it tends to heal abrasions of the intestinal wall caused by rough particles of food

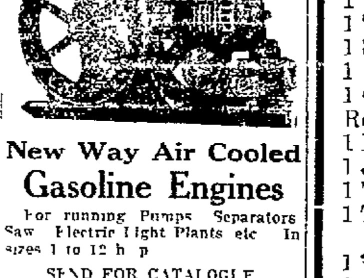

The New York Medical Journal says mineral oil should be taken either before breakfast or after dinner two tablespoonfuls being a dose Its use should be continued every day for at least a fortnight when the bowels will continue to work naturally without it for the mineral oil is in no sense a cathartic but it will cure constipation —Kingston Daily Freeman February 17, 1917
